

EXCHANGES

With the publication of this final issue of Red and White for 1935 we complete our duties in connection with this magazine.

We wish to thank all those who have contributed to our exchange desk during the past year for their co-operation, and beg them to accept our criticism in the friendly spirit in which it was given.

In parting, we hope all our present exchanges will renew acquaintance with Red and White for 1935-36.

THE PATRICIAN HERALD

The Patrician Herald, published by the students of St. Patrick's High School, Quebec City, can always be depended upon for an extensive and interesting editorial section. In its last number the editor gave what he considered the three essential elements of worldly satisfaction; first, a healthy inferiority complex; secondly, a pessimistic view of life; and thirdly, a spirit of dissatisfaction with everything.

As for the remainder of the issue, we consider College Humour too limited, and recommend the addition of an exchange department.

THE NORTHLAND ECHO

We welcome this lively young envoy from the North Bay Collegiate and Vocational School to our department. It is a scholarly magazine, special departments being devoted to German and French, besides the usual English section.

In the literary section we feel a delightful touch of the north in "A Week in a Hunting Camp," and Grace Harris' beauty filled "Sights Along a Northern Trail."

But the humour section we considered altogether too long and confused. If the work of the various forms were compressed into half the space it would be more readily appreciated.

THE MEMORARE

Mount St. Bernard's College in Antigonish can claim the honor of publishing the largest and best appearing magazine we have received from any Maritime college. Its appeal for those who were privileged to see it can be explained by the fact that it comes from a ladies' college and contains many pictures of college activities; a great deal of its space is devoted to the publication of the jubilee reunion that took place there recently, not to the neglect of literature, however, which occupies a commanding section.

The distinctive mark of the Memorare is its intense religious atmosphere produced by several religious poems, and the exclusion of humour.

THE CHRISTIAN FAMILY

We find it impossible to complete this year's work without saying a few words on the best mission publication we receive. The Christian Family is published by St. Mary's Mission House, Techny, Illinois. Everything in it was of high order; but "Strolling Through Europe" and "The Czar Who Became a Hermit" were especially good. A moderate amount of verse and humour, six stories and "Plain Talks on Health" rounded out a well-balanced issue.

THE COLLEGIAN

This publication from St. Mary's College, Halifax, N. S., is one of our favourites. Its latest edition maintains the high standard set by previous numbers. Well written articles, such as, "Nova Scotia and the N. B. A." and "New Deal Philosophy" were well looked after by News From Abroad, and The World About Us. Verse is wisely limited, and humour is unwisely omitted. The exchange section is much better than most of those we have seen. More power to it!

THE MITRE

The Mitre is unfortunate in coming to our attention after we have exhausted our store of adjectives on previous magazines. It is really a very creditable performance on the part of the students of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, P. Q. Any student who has spent a night in writing a composition to which he has consequently become very much attached, and who receives it back from the critic "with harsh scorn" penciled on every page, would appreciate the "Ode to a Composition." We have all experienced the disillusionment expressed in the last two lines:

*"Child of my brain ! You're not worth half a dime.
Only the basket claims you. In you go !"*

The above ode seemed not to be sufficient outlet for the author's joviality, so he follows it with an essay, "On Kissing at Railway Stations." This confirmed him in our opinion as a humourist.

Space forbids from considering the remaining articles and poems, all of which we have read and consider excellent.

CHINA

Another mission publication giving many hearty laughs. This seems a paradox, yet it is actually the case with China to which we are indebted for making stories and facts about our missions palatable by first treating us to a page of jokes. Its publishers have been considering the dispensing with Nonsense, but we would not consider this advisable, human nature being what it is. Let us close by dubbing China "the mighty atom" of our numerous exchanges.

THE LA SALLITE

In our first issue we devoted some space to Green and White from De La Salle College, Manila, P. I. From the same college we have just received a year-book for 1935 called The La Sallite. We thank the seniors of that college for their beautiful contribution to this desk. It comprises about two hundred pages of pictures, biographies, essays, and sketches of athletic and other activities of the past year. We thank you De La Salle, and hope you will resume relationship with our successor. Adios !

Red and White also gratefully acknowledges the following:

The College Times, Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown.

The Adelphian, St. Bonaventure's College, St. John's, Nfld.
The Challenger, The Vocational School, St. John, N. B.
The Sum-Hi-Echo, Summerside High School, Summerside, P. E. I.

The Acadia Athenaeum, Acadia College, Wolfville, N. S.
The Danubian Reveiw, Budapest, Hungary.

St. Joseph's Lilies, St. Joseph's College, Toronto.

The King's College Record, King's College, Halifax, N. S.

The Tech Flash, N. S. Technical College, Halifax, N. S.

The Academy Broadcast, Halifax Academy, Halifax, N. S.

The Eikon, the Redemptorist Fathers, Toronto.

The Taranakian, New Plymouth High School, Australia.

Lower Canada College Magazine, Lower Canada College, Montreal.

The Argosy Weekly, Mount Allison, Sackville, N. B.

The Xaverian Weekly, St. Francis Xavier College, Antigonish, N. S.

The Gazette, University of Western Ontario, London, Ont.

The Brunswickian, University of New Brunswick, Fredericton, N. B.

Queen's Journal, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.

The Labarum, Clarke College, Dubuque, Iowa.

The Quarterly, New Rochelle, New York.

The Canadian Bookman, 516 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont.

Fu Jen, Catholic University, of Peking China.

