

St. Dunstan's Red and White

Ex eodem fonte fides et scientia

Vol. XXIV.

MAY, 1933

No. 3

Your Work

What of the troublous way, and of the uphill faring ?
Valor is yours, and the goal may be yours for the questing:
Never was glory achieved nor vict'ry without daring:
What proves the worth of a man but the sorrow,—the testing.
Never was greater need of faith, and of youth's high dreaming;
There was never a greater need of men clear-eyed and strong.
Somewhere in these darkened days set fires of hope a-
gleaming;
There is work for your brain and hands;—a place where you belong.

—Lucy Gertrude Clarkin.