

After two weeks at St. Dunstan's what are your impressions of the university?...

Academically speaking, the transition from high school to St. Dunstan's University was tremendous.

Socially speaking, life would be much more enjoyable if there were some activities on campus. During Freshman week, we had an opportunity to meet new students. Now, this opportunity is lost. When weekends arrive, each goes his own way. With activities on campus, spirit would be improved and there wouldn't be such a depletion of students at St. Mary's Residence and at Marion College.

Even before I arrived at St. Dunstan's I was given a taste of the school's spirit. On the bus trip from Amherst, the bus driver and the wearisome civilians were lulled by the trusty bilingual ballads of the St. Dunstan's veterans. Now after two weeks as a functioning member of the student-body I find that the faculty and student relationship is more personal here than I was led to believe it would be at any university. What I like most about St. Dunstan's is the community life and the cosmopolitan student body.

Academically speaking, the university is quite different from high school in that the courses are more difficult and that success or failure depends entirely on the individual. The teaching staff at S.D.U. is excellent and we are fortunate in having such a modern and well stocked library.

Socially, tremendous university spirit was shown by the upperclassmen during Freshman week; it made us feel so welcome during our first week at SDU. Marian College and St. Mary's provide very comfortable residences for the co-eds, and offer them cultural as well as spiritual opportunities.

In conclusion, we, as newcomers, should try to live up to the standards expected of us, in order to make SDU as good if not better than before.

64-65 EXECUTIVE

In recent elections on campus, the Senior, Junior, Sophomore, and Engineering Classes named their officers for the current school year.

The Seniors' administration consists of Dan Kinch, President; Len Sirois, Vice-President; Patsy MacDougall, Secretary-Treasurer.

On the Juniors' slate are President, Jim Griffith; Vice-President, Bruce Garrity; and Secretary-Treasurer, Veronica Swift.

Charley MacMillan heads the Sophomore executive while Andre Gelin and Karen Kelly hold down the positions of Vice-President and Secretary-Treasurer, respectively.

Directing the Engineering Society's affairs will be in the hands of President, Roger Arsenault; Vice-President, Ken La Pierre; Secretary Ken Hubley and Treasurer, Robert Arsenault.

The newly-elected officers are responsible for the planning and managing of various activities within their respective classes. Individual class parties are on the agenda of events coming up in the near future.

Results of Freshman balloting were not available for this publication.

My general impressions of St. Dunstan's I shall limit to three aspects—1) physical, 2) academic and 3) social. The physical appearance of the university campus gave perhaps the greatest impact. Spacious, yet compact, the campus environment creates a closely-knit society all its own. This society has been a new experience for me at St. Dunstan's and I feel proud to be one of its members.

Academically, university life could best be expressed in the words of one of my professors, "Your work is never done." Although there are fewer subjects than in high school, I find the amount of material covered per lecture almost doubled. Twenty-four hours doesn't seem to be a long enough day. The library is a welcome aid and its atmosphere of study is the best I have ever seen.

The tremendous welcome given to all freshmen by our upper classmen impressed me most favourably. This spirit of friendliness seems to pervade the campus and has made me feel wanted here. I only hope that we freshmen can express a small measure of appreciation, by giving them the fullest cooperation in all campus activities.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

The S.D.U. Social Committee, under the chairmanship of George Arsenault, is beginning to take shape on campus. The aim of this organization is to study the universities existing social life with a view to revising and bettering it. Meeting regularly, the committee hopes to come up with new ideas; it requests the cooperation of students in its task of examining and ameliorating social life.

All social functions in the gym must be OK'd by the social committee before being staged.

Members of the 1964-65's executive are Kathleen Walsh, Veronica Swift, Diane La Rose, Mary Cullen, Joe Condon, Paul Kelly, Mike Jones, and Roger Arsenault.

After two weeks at St. Dunstan's I am aware more than ever that the scholarly atmosphere of study so essential to the acquisition of knowledge permeates the entire campus. Also, the ample program of extracurricular activities combines excellently with the academic side, toward moulding the truly well-balanced man—the well rounded Christian individual. St. Dunstan's lives up to the standards of a university, and now, it's up to each and every Freshman to live up to the standards of St. Dunstan's.

After registering at the Library, I went looking for a room. Everything and everyone around me seemed to be saying, "Welcome to St. Dunstan's." Even the seniors seemed to be saying it by means of the excellent programme which they had for us during the enjoyable "Freshman Week". A feeling of friendliness is apparent, perhaps, because our professors, our schoolmates and our playmates live so close together in a kind of place of our own. If this "friendliness" prevails throughout my years at St. Dunstan's, and I am sure it will, I know that I will enjoy my years here.
