

The Funny Man

Infirmarian: "Well, what's the matter with you today?"

Kickham: "I've got infernal complications.

Infirmarian: "You mean internal. Infernal means lower regions.

Kickham: "Well that's where I've got them."

Ronnie: "Why does O'Leary room with Vince?"

Doc: "Because he needs a "Crane" to hold up that pipe of his, I guess."

Shreenan: "What animal has no organs of sense, no legs, and no tail?"

Rooney: "I give up."

Shreenan: "A hot dog."

L. Murphy, getting ready for town: "Say, John, did you see my belt around the bed?"

Keefe: "No, I didn't know that you wore it there."

Sprague, just back from Boston: "Gosh I saw an awful street-car accident when I was in the States."

Lambros: (biting like a fish) "I do wonder what it could be."

Sprague: "Well you see, a fellow had his eye on a seat and a lady came and sat on it."

Prof: "Give me a synonym for the word sight."

Hogan: "Vision, sir."

Prof: "Now what's the difference between them?"

Pop: "Well you can call a woman a vision, but never call her a sight."

Referee, at basketball game: "Double foul on Ben McDonald for holding."

Female voice from spectators: "Oh, isn't that just like Ben."

J. H. Su—n, "When I sing the tears come into my eyes; what can I do for it?"

Malone: "Stuff your ears with wax, I guess."

Prof, in biology: "What is katabolism, sir."

C. Johnston: "The study of cats, sir."

Dalton: "How do you pronounce r-e-f-u-s-e?"

Ronnie: "What does it mean?"

Dalton: "Well suppose I finished my dinner and had a lot of stuff on my plate, what would you call it?"

Ronnie: "I'd call that a miracle."

Gene, at social: "What would you say if I were to throw a kiss at you?"

H. M. "I'd say that you were the laziest fellow I ever met."

J. Mooney: "Say, Johnnie, how is it that there so many hills up in Kelly's Cross?"

John M: "Well some time ago the farmers had so much land that they had to stook it."

Doc McG., rapping furiously at the Prefect's door: "Please come at once to Ronnie, Dalton has taken his temperature, and it's gone down."

Prefect: "That's all right, he'll be fine now."

Doc: "Taint all right. It's gone right down, e've swallered it."

Boo: "I saw an ostrich on the handball alley today."

Doodad: No, no it must have been an hallucination."

Boo: "Has an Hallucination got a very long neck?"

Monty: "When I got on the train this morning the conductor stared at me as if I hadn't paid my fare."

Hughes: "And what did you do?"

Monty: "Why I just stared back at him as if I had."

Prof: "If happiness is a positive term, give me the opposing negative."

McIvor: "Unhappiness."

Prof: "Correct. Now what's the opposite of woe?"

McIvor: "Giddap."

Driscoll: "Why do you spell your name A. Archie G. G. Gillis?"

Archie: "Because that's my name. You see I was christened by a clergyman that stuttered."

Prof of Physics: "In standing as he is where does the centre of gravity fall?"

G. Keefe: "Within the base of support."

Prof: "And in sitting where does it fall?"

Gerald: "On the chair."

Donald Campbell: "What do you fellows study in third year?"

O'Leary: "Oh Greek, Latin, Chemistry, Algebra, etc."

Donald: "Well, let's hear you say 'hello' in Chemistry."

Prof: "When was the act of settlement?"

Hen: "The last time I was down at O—ll."

Gus: "Yes, when she wasn't looking I kissed her."

Phelan: "What did she do then?"

Gus: "She refused to look at me for the rest of the evening."

Prefect: "Well Dinny, you're half an hour late this morning, what detained you?"

Dinny: "Yes. You see I got kicked by a mule on my way out."

Prefect: "But that wouldn't keep you half an hour late."

Dinny: "But he kicked me the other way."

Prof. in English: "Give me three examples of errors in composition."

"Tingley: Barbarians, Inn-proprietors, and Solar Systems."

Callaghan: "Say, Bull, 'What's an example of a sentence with the word deceitful in it?'"

Corrigan: "That's easy. 'I bought my ticket for the theatre and when he took me to my place we found deceitful.'"

Prof. "How many zones are there?"

Cosgrove: "Two, masculine and feminine."

Prof: "How so?"

Cosgrove: "Well the masculine is either temperate or intemperate, while the feminine is either torrid or frigid."

Ist student: "When dating with a stage girl you meet her at the stage door; but when would one meet a movie actress?"

Experienced: "At the screen door, of course."

Some say "I Wonder What Became of Sally," but O'Leary says: "I wonder—

If Tom Henderson ever overslept.

If Roy Grant ever bought his own tobacco.

If Louis Dougan ever winked at a girl.

If Ellsworth ever made below 95 in Greek.

If Gerald Keefe likes the name SCROOGE.

If Peter MacAulay ever got up on time.

If Ronnie McKenna still sells fish.

If Gene Murray uses powder.

Whom they call "Lambros."

If Ed. Gillis was ever shorn.

Where Dunphy got his Vet. degree.

Who Christened John McGuigan, "Spike."

If Mark Twain will revise his "Wit and Humour."

AMONG THE AUTHORS

My Guardian Angel.....	By Roy Grant
My Travels with a Lizzie.....	By J. H. F—d.
Centrifugal Force.....	By St. Clair Monaghan
The Effects of Weak Milk.....	By Doc. McGuigan
Flying Squirrels.....	By Clarence Shea
A Night on the Avenue.....	By Dennis Ryan
How to treat Spikes for Rust.....	By John McGuigan

"It is not the weariness of mortality but the strength of divinity, which we have to recognize in all mighty things; and that is just what we now never recognize, but think that we are to do great things by help of iron bars and perspiration; alas! we shall do nothing that way, but lose some pounds of our own weight."

—Ruskin

"Old friends cannot with impunity be sacrificed for new ones."

—Aesop.