

Senior Slops

by CHUCK McEWEN

Went into the Old Spain one afternoon, during the period of the Royal Visit, with the intention of having a ten-cent cup of coffee, eyeing a few girls, and doing my daily Patriot Crossword Puzzle. Bob Francoeur and I took a booth, waited 20 minutes for a waitress to pass by, got her attention (we tripped her), mumbled "Two coffee, please", and then were smugly informed that as of a few minutes previous, a minimum charge had been levied. What can I say except: "Boy, 15c for a coke that size!" Time they hurried up on that coffee shop!

Talking about Bob F., man, that guy sure gets around. He's going through Marian like "A" goes through a case of Moose. He's marking X's on his wall left and right, which is really fantastic, considering that basketball hasn't started as yet. Ah! But maybe there is someone who can trip him up. If she can pass out those kisses like she said she would! Lots of luck, Pat!

I like going to these informal parties where everybody lets down their hair. (HA HA) That's where I pick up most of this stuff (nearly used a couthless word!) I write. Take the party Pat Roy threw several days ago. There was Joe and Murial serving tea; Lennie and Judy spilling it on the carpet (between rounds); A. Gaudet and anything he could get his hands on; and a whole bunch of other misfits. Me? Well you should be able to guess where I spent the evening. I have weak kidneys.

Steve C. seems to be quite regular this year.

Have a good joke to pass on. It goes as follows: A few minutes after obtaining permission to go to the boy's room, twenty-year old John F. was back in Soc. Class. "I can't find it," he announced tearfully—"Of course you can," said Father Allen. "You've always found it before. Gene, you go along with John and help him." In a short time both John and Gene returned, all smiles. "John put his trousers on backward this morning," Gene explained cheerfully. . . .

Tom Hayden has gone on the wagon. Guess he got quite a scare during his excursion to Mount A. for the football game. Joining him on the plateau of Sobriety will be Lennie the Limp. Somebody squealed on him during that same football trip. For penance, he had to go with Judy to the Co-ed party. On behalf of the entire Senior class, I extend my heartfelt sympathy and condolences during your bereavement, Len.

Dave H. and the Romper-Room gang are opening the festivities at the residence for the coming year. They've asked me to announce that a clam-bake will be held by the Nurses and ANY BOYS that are interested, behind Marian, in the near future.

Employing a red-faced expression and an embarrassingly shaky voice, Joe M. has informed close friends that this year he has rid himself of his obstacle to study and is striving for sixty percent. Bob F. has visions of accepting Joe's former responsibility and establishing a platonic relationship. Good grief! I wish to apologize to Mary D. for saying she wore short skirts. It wasn't her at all. George A., on the side of her, had his socks rolled down.

Fitzgerry waited patiently for a few days, expectantly hoping, without justification, that some Co-ed would demurely ask him to their annual smash. So far

A Bird's Eye View

By Joe Condon

The school year is rolling along. By the time you read this article the fear of exams will be upon you. On that cheery note let us continue. Of course, the Junior class has once again led the way in the blood donor drive. Led by the encouragement of Steve and Martha (inseparable) the Freshmen, Sophomores and Seniors were humbled; the Junior softball team is leading all competition. Just another of the many attributes of the finest class at St. Dunstan's.

There is a great deal of gossip floating around concerning our distinguished membership. The Junior Van-Doo's led by General Trotter, Colonel O'Connell, Lieutenants Dunn and Dupont have just returned from a perilous mission in the dense jungles of P. E. I. They are a hearty lot. On the evening of October 9, full MOONS were seen from several vantage points in Charlottetown. The moons were rather pale and brownish.

Dave Morton, everybody's good buddy (co-eds included) has established a lonely hearts club in third floor memorial. Bruce Garrity is constantly soliciting his services. Garth McCarvill seems to have no need of this club, he goes home on weekends to his love in Kinkora.

THE QUEEN VISITS SO WHAT!

By John B. MacDonald

During the past months, millions have been spent in preparation for the royal visit—millions which could have been spent more advantageously than simply to

Jerry Doyle has put his girl friend out to pasture after the Vernon River Prom held in Kelly's Barn. Speaking of Vernon River, rumor has it that John Cowie and Brian Duffy have been seen swimming nude in the Vernon River area. Dick Flynn, the man from the swinging pad, had a real hot romance with a swinging chick named Chris from Hamilton.

TID BITS:—John Cowie asks, "Why have I come?" Gino and Fran failed to hit it off. The memory of John R. lingers on. Brian Duffy's kid brother can out-drink him. The Johns in the coffee shop are going to have high ceilings. Britton will be able to really fling it and pile it in there. Speaking of Britton, the slinker has failed to produce adequate canteen service. Let's hang him. Bill Clough's beard is sure ugly. John Nelson is growing a mustache. Thank God he is a senior. We hear he likes pre-shave lotion with his milk. Joe Trainor took a shower involuntarily. Farmer took one out of necessity. Dennis Gallant called from Boston University to say hello.

Well, let's hope the football team has their first victory by the time this comes to press. See you in a month.

ED. NOTE:—Due to limited space, the class columns will appear in alternate editions—Freshmen and Sophomore columns in the next edition.

bring someone here who should mean no more to us as Canadians than a kind, generous lady of Royal descent and head of the Anglican Church.

As such and as a guest of this country, we do not wish any harm to come to her. All possible security measures had been taken to ensure her safety here. Thousands of men including military personnel, militia and R.C.M.P. were imported and the Prime Minister finally found use for four of his naval vessels.

The purpose of this visit was the same as the previous one. The last time, she came to officially open the Naval Barracks. This year it had been closed, but the government has seen fit to spend over five million dollars to erect another building for her Highness to open. Perhaps the next time she comes she will break a bottle of champagne over a flagpole carrying a twenty-five year overdue CANADIAN flag, or over a document granting Canada her independence.

In the meantime, however, we have shown her our Island hospitality by waving union jacks, red ensigns and maple leaves; and singing our national anthem—"The Maple Leaf Forever", "O Canada" or is it "God Save Our Queen"?
