

Evidently something is wrong. Are the students at fault? Or are we to suppose that our present system of discipline is ineffectual? These are good questions, and the answer to the alternative is difficult. The best reply, however, seems to be that both are to blame. The students refuse to demonstrate the maturity that will warrant a shifting of emphasis from compulsion to self-discipline; and the disciplinarians demand from the students evidence of a greater sense of responsibility. Neither seems to realize that the one is dependent upon the other, and hence we find ourselves in a vicious circle.

We recognize the fact that some rules and regulations are necessary in order to ensure the integrity of the rights of other students; with those we have no quarrel. It is with the discipline—or lack of it—that is directed to the individual's own welfare and development that we take issue. If the aim of discipline is to develop character, then it is not attaining its end. If such discipline is discipline for the sake of discipline,—and, if it is not, it should be,—then there is too much emphasis on compulsion, and not enough upon self-discipline. We admit that it is difficult to ascertain just when an individual may be considered mature enough to be entrusted with the responsibility of choosing what is good and avoiding what is not, of doing what he should do and resisting what he should not do, but should not his scholastic attainment be an indication?

Discipline is necessary. But a Senior is not a high-school student; and no one can produce any proof of the hypothesis that our system implies, that a Senior becomes a "Christian gentleman" immediately upon receiving his degree, that he can take his place as a leader in society, that he is ready to accept all the responsibilities that will be his, when he is not "mature" enough to accept the larger share of the responsibility for the development of his own character.

It's time for the second installment of the 48—49 edition of the Chronicle, and, with much to report, we'll get right down to work.

From January 3rd. to 8th. the college played host to over one hundred young men and women of the P.E.I. Junior Farmers' Federation, who were attending the second annual short course of their organization. The objective of the course, which he called a "builders' course", was outlined by Mr. Leo MacIsaac, of the extension division of the Department of Agriculture, as the fostering of ideas, which would be carried back for action in the home districts. To this end a crowded program of various activities, including talks by different men prominent in agriculture, mock parliaments, reports from various groups, and a visit to the Experimental Farm, was engaged in. The program of the short course when coupled with the contacts made, should serve to enable all those who participated to be better farmers and to play a more intelligent and active part in the life of their communities.

Because of the short course the students enjoyed an unusually long Christmas vacation, and we did not return to college until Monday, January 10th.

In extending congratulations and best wishes in the first issue of Red and White to the newly ordained priests of the diocese, we inadvertently omitted Rev. Louis B. Dooley, '44, who was ordained on June 6th. by His Excellency Bishop Boyle in St. Dunstan's Basilica, Charlottetown. Father Dooley is at present stationed in Tignish.

On December 29th. Mr. Ernest Jolie, who is teaching commerce here this year, was married to Miss Anne Adams in Assumption Church, Windsor, Ontario. Mr. and Mrs. Jolie are now living in Charlottetown. Red and White takes this opportunity to extend to them congratulations and best wishes for many years of happy marriage.

On January 13th., Very Rev. Gavan P. Monaghan, '20, pastor of St. John's Church, Edmond, Oklahoma, and superintendent of Catholic schools in that state, celebrated the Silver Jubilee of his sacerdotal ordination. Forced by ill-health to discontinue his teaching at St. Dunstan's in 1941, Father Gavan went to Oklahoma, where he has played an active role, particularly in the field of education.

Another member of the class of '20, Rev. Patrick Walsh, parish priest of Palmer Road Parish, also celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination on January 13th. Father Walsh has been pastor at Palmer Road for the past twenty years.

Red and White extends to Father Monaghan and Father Walsh sincere congratulations on this occasion.

Rev. George McCabe, '20, who also celebrated the Silver Jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood on January 13th., died at his home in Central Bedeque on Tuesday, March 1st. After his ordination Father McCabe was first attached to the staff of St. Dunstan's Basilica, Charlottetown, and later was stationed at St. Paul's Rectory, Summerside. In 1928 he went to Sturgeon as parish priest, and held that post till 1932, when he was forced by ill-health to discontinue his active priestly work. Since that time he has resided at home.

His funeral was held on Saturday, March 5th., to St. Malachy's Church, Kinkora, where a Solemn Requiem Mass was sung by Rt. Rev. G. J. McLellan, V.G., assisted by Rev. J. W. McCardle, as Deacon, and Rev. Wilfred Keefe as Sub-deacon. The funeral sermon was delivered by Rt. Rev. J. A. Murphy, D.P.

Red and White extends sincere sympathy to Father McCabe's family. May he Rest in Peace.

Late in the first term the Rector announced that Rev. Michael E. Francis, who for the past five and one half years has capably directed the Extension Department, has been obliged by ill-health to resign from his post. Since assuming the direction of the Extension Department, Father Francis has made a notable contribution to the welfare of the people of the island. He has been successful not only in organizing new Credit Unions and Fishermen's Unions and short courses throughout the province, but also in fostering educational work in the older unions. Father Francis has not completely severed his connections with the Extension Department, however, for he will remain as an advisor and assistant when his health permits.

His successor is Mr. Eugene Gorman, a member of the class of '41. After serving overseas for three and one half years, Gene accepted a position as manager of the North Rustico Fishermen's Co-operative. He has made a success of this work, and the experience which he has gained from it has given him a wide and practical knowledge of co-operative principles, practices, and policies. He assumes the directorship of the Extension Department well qualified for his new duties, and Red and White wishes him all success in it.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. John Trainor, another member of the class of '41, who has recently been appointed as Chief Welfare Officer for the Provincial Department of Health and Welfare. After returning from overseas, Jack spent a year in McGill University, Montreal, from where he received his B.S.W. Later he accepted a position with the Department of Veterans' Affairs, Charlottetown.

Toward the end of January, Rev. Lawrence Hart, S.F.M., paid a visit to the college, and while here addressed the student body. He spoke of the Society of Foreign Missions, its work among the nominally Catholic people of San Domingo, and of its great need for more priests to carry on its missionary work.

On Wednesday night, February 2nd., the members of the Junior Class were guests of honour at a very largely attended and enjoyable Senior Prom. Those who were in attendance were introduced to the chaperones by the president of the Senior Class, Mr. William Ledwell. The chaperones for the evening were Mrs. Howard F. McInnis, Mrs. Frederick MacMillan, and Mrs. Charles Praught.

In the short time during which they have been attending St. Dunstan's our co-eds have played a role in student activities altogether out of proportion to their numbers. As students they have set a very high standard, and they have willingly and enthusiastically entered into those fields of extra-curricular work open to them. Their latest move has been the formation of a sorority, which is to be known as the Sigma Delta Upsilon Sorority. Membership in this organization is open to all young ladies who have attended or are attending St. Dunstan's. The objective of the sorority is the religious, social, and cultural development of its members. If the success which has obtained from the past activities of the co-eds can be taken as a criterion, it is safe to say that this new society is already assured much success.

The officers are as follows:

|--------------------------|---------------------|
| President..... | Evelyn Hessian, '49 |
| Vice-president..... | Peggy Green, '50 |
| Secretary-treasurer..... | Ethel Trainor, '49 |
| Councillors..... | Irene Burge, '51 |
| | Ann Campbell, '52 |

Red and White takes this occasion to extend best wishes to the Sigma Delta Upsilon Sorority.

Over the Christmas holidays we were very sorry to learn that one of our senior co-eds, Miss Mary O'Shea, has been forced to discontinue her studies and re-enter the Provincial Sanatorium for a further rest. Mary, in addition to being an excellent student, has taken an active part in the work of the various societies on the campus. It is regrettable that anyone should have to discontinue studies because of ill-health, but it is particularly so in Mary's case, for she was within a few months of graduation. All her friends at the college wish her a speedy recovery.

Miss Jerryldine Robertson, '51, has taken Miss O'Shea's place as Secretary-treasurer of the C.F.C.C.S. Jerry is also the journalist of our unit of the M.I.D.L., and in the listing of the officers of that society in the first issue of Red and White her name was unintentionally omitted.

In the first issue we mentioned that the Dramatic Society was rehearsing a three act comedy-drama entitled Nora Wake Up. It was presented before a capacity audience on Monday night, November 29th. All who saw it were kept laughing from start to finish. In listing the Dramatis Personae we are quoting from The Week at S.D.U:

Nora Callaghan—Ethel (I'm only seventeen, and I couldn't fall in love before I finish college) Trainor.

Mrs. Peggy Callaghan—her mother—Jerry (thim stays git tighter and tighter) Robertson.

Carlyle Coleridge—a tramp—Lorne (me wife wanted me to be a bootlegger) MacDonald.

Johnny Callaghan—Mrs. Callaghan's son—Danny (I'll ask the cow how to make biscuits, Nora) Driscoll.

Danny Millins—Johnny's friend—"Hitler" (I love you so much Nora) Johnston.

Mrs Edmonton—a modern mother—Kay (What idiots girls are!) Roche.

Ed. Edmonton—her son, a double crosser—played by an unknown actor, very reminiscent of the late Jack Barrymore in his youth. (Mike Hennessey)

Katie Schwartz—an obliging neighbor—Lorraine (Don't do nuttin what you don't want to did. Yaah!) McNeely

George Keefe capably acted as Master of Ceremonies, and the stage, lighting, and sound effects were handed by Vincent MacDonald

The Glee Club supplemented the presentation of the play by several specialties between the acts, including a piano solo by Bethany MacDonald, "Freshette" pianist, and a trumpet and piano duet by Roy Grant and Alex MacInnis.

Both the Glee Club and Dramatic Society have been working for some time on a program to be presented during Lent. As we go to press the details are still in the "top secret" bracket, and, despite our strenuous efforts to break their code, we are unable to give any details. However, a full report will appear later.

As the result of a visit to the college on Monday night, February 7th., by Mrs. Harold Clark, travelling secretary of the International Student Service, an I.S.S. Committee, of which James Trainor is the chairman and Wilfred Driscoll and Charles Kelly are members, has been set up by the executive of the Students' Union. The student body has become intensely interested in the work of I.S.S., and hopes to participate in its "D.P." Scholarship Plan, the objective of which is to bring at least one Displaced Person to each Canadian campus for a minimum of one year's study. The "D.P.'s." are brought to Canada as immigrants through the International Refugee Organization, which pays transportation costs from Europe to the various campuses. The I.S.S. then assumes full responsibility for these students.

In order that St. Dunstan's be able to participate in this scheme it is necessary, in addition to tuition and board being provided for, that $800. be raised by the student body. The students were given much encouragement when it was announced that the college is willing to waive both the tuition and board fees, providing we can raise the $800. required by I.S.S. The committee has eagerly set out to raise this money, and it has the solid backing of the entire student body.

This determination on the part of the students to do all in their power to bring a "D.P." to St. Dunstan's next fall has resulted in much activity on the campus during the last few weeks. To assist them in their work, Mr. Trainor and his committee have called on others for help. Daniel Driscoll has been appointed as secretary-treasurer of the committee, and he has been in contact with some of the Service Clubs of Charlottetown from whom we have sought monetary assistance.

In order that the attention of the public be drawn to and their interest aroused in I.S.S., the committee has appointed Arthur McInnis as publicity manager for the campaign. Through the kind co-operation of the two Charlottetown papers a series of four articles has been published dealing with I.S.S. and the part our student body hopes to play in it. These articles were written by Arthur McInnis, Evelyn Hessian, Ivan Dowling, and Wilfred Driscoll.

To further arouse interest in I.S.S., Miss Jerryldine Robertson has prepared several posters which have been displayed in different prominent places around the campus. Jerry's work in the past in this respect has drawn many favourable comments, and her present efforts are no less praiseworthy.

As the first money making project in its drive, the committee sponsored a skate which was held in the college rink on Saturday night, February 26th. Preparations for this skate were under the direction of Reginald Doucette, to whom much credit is due for the efficient manner in which this project was executed.

In connection with this skate a canteen was conducted by the co-eds. Through the generosity of the mothers of the Charlottetown students, who donated the sandwiches and cookies needed, and the Bursar and the Sisters, who provided coffee, a plentiful supply of refreshments was available. The arrangements for the canteen were under the direction of John Murnaghan and Wilbert McInnis.

The net proceeds from the skate and canteen were approximately $225.00.

Red and White, on behalf of the I.S.S. Committee, wishes to say a sincere "Thank You" to all those who co-operated in any way in making the skate such a tremendous success.

Again this year the co-eds conducted a successful fudge sale on Shrove Tuesday. Last year's proceeds were donated to the relief work of I.S.S. and the same procedure has been followed this year. The net proceeds of the sale were over $50.00.

With such a fine return from both the skate and fudge sale our campaign is off to an excellent start. The next step in the drive will be the holding of a lottery by the C.F.C.C.S., which last year was able to raise over $500.00 for relief work

On Saturday night, March 5th., a second I.S.S. skate was held in the college rink. This largely attended skate enabled those who had purchased tickets for the first skate, but who were unable to attend because of the severe storm, to "get their money's worth." These skates have been very enjoyable for both the students and the young ladies who have attended them. They have also been a means, which should be employed more frequently, for the students to engage in social life, so vital if we are to properly take our place in society.

Our unit of the Maritime Intercollegiate Debating League has concluded its activities for this year. The result of the debates in which we participated was two wins and one loss. As was stated in the last issue of Red and White, our only home debate this year was with Pine Hill Theological College, Halifax, on the subject "Resolved that Russia's attitude in the United Nations is justified." On Friday evening, November 26th., in Queen Square School Hall, Charlottetown, Lorne MacDonald and Evelyn Hessian, arguing for the negative, defeated Messrs. John Archibald and Harold Cox from Pine Hill. In presenting their arguments Lorne and Evelyn used to advantage the recent amendment to the constitution of the M.I.D.L. which allows the negative to disregard the arguments of the affirmative and present an entirely different case of their own. Mr. Brendon O'Grady capably acted as chairman, and the judges for the evening were Messrs. Ralph Cameron, M. A. Farmer, and Frank Tierney.

In the first of our "away" debates Cyril Sinnott and Paul Landrigan upheld the affirmative of the resolution "Resolved that in view of the present international situation compulsory military training should be adopted in Canada immediately," against a team representing St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish on Sunday night, February 13th. The decision of the judges was unanimous in favour of St. F. X.

The following evening Wilfred Driscoll and John Munnaghan, arguing for the negative of the same resolution, defeated Hewerd Graffety and Thomas Pickard, who represented Mount Allison University. The debate was held in Tweedie Hall on the Mount Allison campus.

To wind up its activities for the year, the M.I.D.L. held a banquet in the Queen Hotel, Charlottetown, on Tuesday evening February 22nd. in honour of the six debaters who represented St. Dunstan's in the intercollegiate circuit this year. The guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Brendon O'Grady. In the course of his remarks Mr. O'Grady referred to the way in which he, a stranger to St. Dunstan's, was "taken in" and made a member of our family, as he called it. He also discussed the unity of purpose and the Catholic culture which he has found among the students.

Father Cass, the moderator and coach of the society, also spoke. He congratulated not only the six intercollegiate debaters, but all those who participated in the trial debates this year. He also extended thanks on behalf of the debaters and himself to Mr. O'Grady and Mr. Jolie, who so generously assisted him in his work in the M.I.D.L. this year.

At the conclusion of his remarks, Father Cass was presented with a Ronson lighter, a small gift from the members of our unit of the M.I.D.L. in grateful appreciation of his contribution to public speaking at St. Dunstan's.

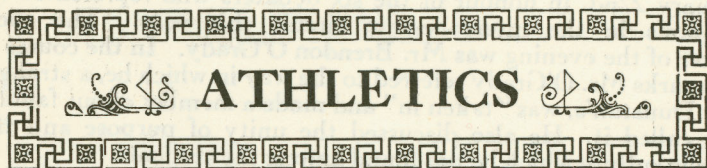

During the course of the banquet Lorne MacDomald and Evelyn Hessian were presented with their Debating D's. To be eligible for a D a student must have participated in two debates, one of which must be a winning debate or in three debates, none of which must be a winning one. Both Lorne and Evelyn have won the two debates in which they have participated.

Red and White extends congratulations to all those who participated in the M.I.D.L. debates this year, and a special word of praise to Evelyn, and Lorne on the obtaining of their D's.

Philosophers Day was observed again this year on the feast of St. Thomas Aquinas, March 7th. In the morning High Mass was celebrated by Rev. J.A. Sullivan. Because of the failure of the Seniors to ice a team, the annual hockey game between the senior and junior philosophers did not take place. Due to dissension among the philosophers, occasioned by the negligence of the seniors, there was no banquet this year. The Juniors, however, held an informal class dinner at the Queen Hotel, Charlottetown, at which Father Sullivan, Professor of Philosophy, was the guest of honour.

Red and White wishes all its readers a blessed Easter.

This winter the Saints are engaged in a great deal of sporting activities both on the campus and against outside competition. The wearers of the Red and White have so far given a very good account of themselves in competing with outside squads and, to all indications, before the college year is at an end more than one trophy will be resting on College Hill.

St. Dunstan's has for the past several years astonished many people by the strength of her athletic teams. In Intercollegiate circles the Saints, especially in hockey and football, have often been rated as the team to beat. Our athletics, however, have been handicapped by the lack of necessary accommodations for training. A gymnasium has for many years been our greatest necessity in athletics. Last spring a drive was launched by the St. Dunstan's Alumni to provide a suitable structure and we sincerely hope that their plans will be brought to a successful conclusion. With a proper gymnasium we feel we can produce boxing, basketball, and track and field teams on a par with any of the rest of the Maritime colleges. Not that our basketball team has not hitherto garnered many noteworthy honors. It certainly has. It has always been a leading contender in Island Basketball activities and much credit must be given both to the members of the team and to their Coach for the competition which they provide despite the lack of proper training facilities. If proper training quarters were available we feel sure that St. Dunstan's could produce a team which would be by far the standout in the local basketball circuit. So let's get behind our Alumni and help boost their project over the top.
