

CAUGHT BETWEEN CLASSES

CLASS ATTENDANCE??

VIRGINIA McDONALD

Junior

Class attendance shouldn't be enforced as strongly as it is. Anyone is bound to rebel when such restrictions are placed upon them.

I think that classes should not be compulsory. It is a method which is suitable for primary school but not university. Students hurt no one but themselves by not attending class.

BOB O'ROURKE

Senior

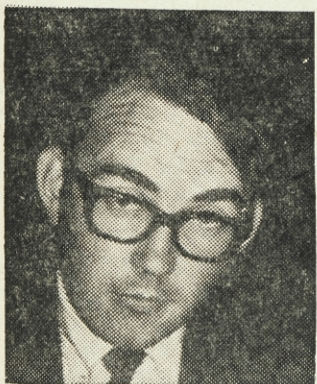

I don't think that attendance should be compulsory. If the faculty wishes us to act like adults, we should be given the opportunity to do so.

FRANK TURGEON

Junior

A lecture is a paid-for T.V. program.

DAVE BULGER

Phil. Prof.

From the point of view of the lecturer, it should be said that the compulsory attendance system deprives him of at least one barometer for gauging the effectiveness of his teaching.

HURRAH! For Treasure Van

Britannia waives the rules — as the old business rules have been waived by Treasure Van this year, in the results of its sale.

The results of the sales for 1965 and 1966 were $1,721 and $1,843 respectively. The $4,105.23 sale of this year is more than can be reasonably expected.

And what has Ken Morrison, Senior Arts student and Treasure Van organizer, got to say? The success of this year was owing to four things: (1) Publicity of last year's sale; (2) A very good publicity campaign; (3) A really enthusiastic staff; and (4) Better variety of goods and lower prices. "I think we were just lucky — and surprised. The Supervisor was English and he was slashing prices", commented Ken.

Mary McInnis, supervisor for last year, had this to say when asked why she thought it was such a big success this year: "Treasure Van is bound to get bigger each year; this year's sale was extremely well organized and well publicized; thanks to the competent management of Ken Morrison."

Tony Glister, Tour Supervisor of Treasure Van, who hails from Liverpool, England, seemed to have a quick wit, a ready smile, and the real knack for dealing with customers. When asked what he thought, he said "The success of each sale depends to a considerable extent upon the impression made on the general public in previous years. The organizers are to be congratulated on the finest public relations achievement I have seen".

We are sure everyone looks forward to Treasure Van next year.

MAKE THE WORLD GO CUSO

By CAROLYN DUFFY

CUSO is the only national, non-denominational organization in Canada which undertakes to recruit any qualified Canadian graduate for two years to "serve and learn" as a volunteer in developing countries. CUSO officially launched its program in 1961 with a mere seventeen young Canadians heading out for foreign fields, until today, in 1967, there are five hundred forty nine Canadians abroad working under CUSO. CUSO offers all technically and academically trained Canadians a chance to travel, to join the fight for world justice and to make a better world by establishing strong international friendships with foreign countries.

The Sixth Annual Conference held at Geneva Park, Couchiching, Ontario, was attended by a student and faculty adviser from every university across Canada. The main point stressed was the importance of Local Committees' role in recruitment and selection of volunteers. Also attending this conference were several return volunteers who attended the workshops and answered questions of the delegates. Generally speaking they all agreed that they "received more than they gave". Many were planning to return after they got settled in their careers. The main concern of the discussions was with recruitment of volunteers and also, how the national committee could increase their efforts to help local committees with selection of volunteers.

The national committee assured us of the increasing support of CUSO given by foreign countries involved and also by the Canadian Federal Government which has increased its financial aid. They expressed the assurance that if local committees kept up the present rate of recruitment that they would soon have a thousand volunteers in the field.

S.D.U. has two volunteers in the field now, Catherine Duffy, '65, who is a teacher in Sarawak, and Fred Legere, '66, who is teaching in Ethiopia.

Any students or faculty members wishing information on any aspect of CUSO please contact Professor D. J. O'Connell or Carolyn Duffy, Marion College.

Christian Living on This Campus!

On Sunday night, Nov. 19 at 8:00 Fr. James Kelly will direct a meeting in Duffy Amphitheatre to begin laying the groundwork for a Lay Council on Christian Living here on our campus.

In a recent interview to discuss the plans for the Council, Fr. Kelly emphatically stated that there are no plans as such. This is an effort which will be planned as we go along, with interested persons building their own structures and making their own rules as they see fit.

Father Kelly referred to Vatican II's pronouncement on the need for a Council of the Laity in each Parish. He stressed the idea of Christ's kingdom on earth and the role of the laity in completing God's creation. Only through community of the laity can we attain a proper consecration of the world to God.

What are the logical implications for the university campus and the members of the University Community? University training is a preparation of a certain elite group to absorb the heritage of the past, achieve a higher degree of development, and prepare for leadership in the future. People have a right to expect University graduates to be developed persons, capable of leading and enriching development in less educated communities. Thus the community of the University must integrate itself into the community of God. We must seek to be fully human; how more human than in the pursuit, sharing, and implementation of truth.

The emphasis is on community rather than spirituality, on basic human values and full Christian living rather than on liturgy. Through a combination of lectures, research, publicity, social action, ecumenical activity, liturgy, and possible week-end type meetings or retreats, we can hope to approach our end.

The meeting Sunday night is a serious invitation to you, to prepare yourself to take over the greatest degree of responsibility for the development of Christian Living. At least, come to the meeting and take either a positive or negative stand.

Students! Faculty! This is a challenge!

news briefs

The first of a series of lectures sponsored by the Sigma Delta Sorority was held in Library 1 on Tuesday evening, November 7. Reverend Gerald Tingley of Saint Dunstan's Basilica Parish was guest speaker, and he addressed a large attendance of young ladies on topics of general interest—psychology of male and female relationships, love, and marriage. Following the lecture a buffet was served at Marion College and a number of girls met informally with Father Tingley to discuss a variety of questions, ranging from those pertaining to Church laws, to the question of compulsory class attendance.

A sincere thank-you goes out to the Executive of the Sorority, especially Carol Hogan and Marianne Murray, for inviting Father Tingley out. Owing to this year's executive the Sigma Delta Sorority has come alive. All you girls work to keep it that way.

Tonight, Nov. 17, at 6:30 in Duffy Amphitheatre, two CUSO returned volunteers from India will address a meeting to tell of their experiences and answer any questions which the students wish to bring up. The volunteers are a young married couple that have been teaching in India for the past two years. Everyone is urged to attend; seniors, especially, should be interested.

It has been learned that three of our students, Fraser Mann, Reby Dolger, and William Hook are winners of the $1500 Government Centennial Scholarship. In addition, they have been awarded S.D.U. $1600 full-tuition Scholarships. Congratulations, Boys.

On October 7, 1967, Canon Mark Ferguson and Dorothy Taylor were married in Morpeth, England. The couple travelled to Majoiea for their honeymoon, and returned to Canada on the ocean liner Empress of England. They arrived back at S.D.U. on Nov. 1. Congratulations, Canon and Mrs. Ferguson.

As results of Treasure Van Sales at Maritime Universities are announced, S.D.U. is well in the lead. Sales at YMCA St. John amounted to $2395, an increase of $243 over last year. Mt. Allison reports a gross sale of $4,004 this year, a drop from $5,423 in 1966. St. Francis Xavier University shows an increase from $1774 in 1966 to $2,195 this year. Here at S.D.U. sales amounted to $4,105.32, an increase of $2,262.08 over last year's sales of $1,843.24.
