This is the final issue of the Red and White for the 1965-1966 term. It has been the policy of the Red and White over the past two months to express the opinions of the student body as we believed it to be and with the necessary emphasis to guarantee that your opinion would be heard and that your importance on this campus fully recognized. Assuming that this staff will be back next term. It is a surety that the paper shall continue to present those issues of student concern if and when they arise.

The principle worry on campus this spring has been what seems to be a widening gulf between the students and the faculty. The gulf has been created through the misunderstanding and misjudgement of both parties. The gulf does not exist between the two as professors and students but it does exist between the two groups of men who differ in their concepts of student freedom.

The students, to put it simply, we hope not too simply, feel that in matters not involving their classroom activity, they should be the sole judges of what they should and should not do. Naturally, many of the faculty disagree with the students' contention. They believe that the students are incapable of handling their own affairs properly and that they would receive an incomplete education here at Saint Dunstan's. Others perhaps believe that they are our guardians while we are at this university and that it is their duty to keep a 'parental' eye on us.

Now there is no necessity to reiterate these problems; everyone on campus is aware of the situation. But what shall we do about it? How shall we solve the immediate problems and thus achieve the most important result — co-operation between the opposing factions?

We feel that the only way to settle these difficulties is through the present student-faculty meetings set-up. This committee should have two parts to it, first, the regular committee which would handle general questions at weekly meetings, and second, a special committee whose function would be to work out the details of a general student-faculty decision.

For these committees to achieve their objective, it is necessary that both groups represented be people who will be able to enter into discussion without any antagonism. The objective of these meetings would be to work for a solution agreeable to both the faculty and the students, not to attack and defend old issues and present conditions. This automatically means that neither prefects nor students with a personal gripe could be members for the temptation would probably be just too much for either of these two to resist taking pokes at the other.

We are positive that if these problems could be settled, then the co-operation which is so badly needed between the faculty and students on campus could easily be attained.

LETTERS

The Editor of the Red & White, S.D.U. Charlottetown.

Dear Sir:

Since Mr. Arnold F. Doucette cannot even play Dominoes, I think that he is not capable of writing on the most important subject "Viet Nam".

If S.D.U. wants to be "The University of P.E.I.", it should give us examples of scholarship. I would advise Mr. Doucette to read in the February Sign the article "Beyond the Bullets" by David Finley.

Best wishes to S.D.U.

Sincerely,

A Friend of S.D.U.

TO S.D.U.:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the A.A.A. council for the excellent job they have done this year. It has been a successful year with respect to interclass competition in all sports.

I have had the pleasure of directing this body and the success of the organization is indicative of their efforts as well as the high spirit and interest provided by the students who participated in this program.

Your new executive is a capable body and I sincerely hope the Council will be better than all the previous ones. In the council election held March 29, David MacDonald was voted president and Eugene Murphy, Vice-President. George Morrison became the Secretary-Treasurer.

I sincerely hope this body will continue to sponsor a wide and varied program. The program should expand with increased and better facilities. A boxing club with their own facilities and training area can be combined with the weight

RUMBLINGS & GRUMBLINGS

This is a new column written by you, the people who live here. A few comments have been added, but are not necessarily the opinions of the Red and White. Immediately following the last edition there was a who-dunit session concerning the origin of the remarks about the 'Townie' girls. The general consensus was that even if it was true it shouldn't have been said... Religion 1 is getting to be more fun, judging by Freshman comments. Discussion groups have been formed, but they aren't discussing what they are supposed to... An important fact that has been overlooked in the recent class elections seems to be whether or not those who were elected will make it back next year... People wonder what Newfies are doing here with all that free education over there, especially in Joey's "Come Home Year"... Frosh in Dalton want to know who 'Pono' is. Should they be told?... Some girls want to know if a certain none has been granted her authority through Divine Providence... Rumors have been rampant that the football team will be getting new uniforms next year. The ones the High School wore last year?... What's the scoop on cheerleaders for next year? Rumor has it that the girls will be allowed to do it in cask-socks... If you get kicked out of residence, do you get your caution fee back?... Beware faculty! The Knights of the Campus have been formed. This is a group of rebels who are not only dissatisfied with the rules, they're downright disgusted... Too bad we're losing Father Roche. He may be conservative as all get out, but most respect him in the classroom... Dr. McQuarrie's discussion group is slowing down, more members are needed. This is a tremendous way of talking to the faculty on any subject. Usual time is 8:30 every Wednesday in Lib. 2... There is a new girl's residence going up, probably behind Marion. It's about time. How much longer will Dalton and Main stand? Burn Baby, Burn... There are still a few jerks around who won't give the new French Prof. a break. These guys are going to run into a bad case of bloody nose if they're not careful. Most of his students like his method and they like him... There's a certain campus character who changes his religion more often than he changes his sox... S.D.U. must have the lowest coed pregnancy rate in the country; we also have the lowest coed rate in the country... We were asked to devote part of this column to sex, so we did... The sooner they get the causeway through the better although we would still prefer the cash... Don't some people have anything but white sox?... The better to kick you with my dear... Is there a challenge out from any other University for a drinking contest? Our team has been practicing diligently since Christmas... How's about some coke machines in the residences? You have to go all the way into town for bottled mix, under present deplorable conditions... Awake Canadian debaters! Be on your guard! David Campbell is mad... Quite a few people have noticed the faculty spying on us in the coffee shop. They are quite welcome but students feel they should keep their comments to themselves... One reason some favor a non-denominational U. of P.E.I. is because of the possibility of a wet campus... integrated residences maybe?... The God of P.E.I. is obviously Bacchus, we wonder who is the patron saint?... Those High Schoolers who were here a while ago were given a glowing report on University life. Poor gullible kids... U.B.C. seems to be the winner of "The College I Should Have Gone To" award. However, most people become attached to this place, ridiculous rules and all, and won't transfer. By the way U.B.C. is about $75.00 cheaper than S.D.U... When is the cut rule going to be changed? Unlimited cuts are out, but 20-25% seems to be a reasonable figure, especially for those 8:40 classes... Is the faculty really divided into three camps, those who don't want a rule change, those who do, and those who don't care?... Those boards leading to the Coffee Shop are a great idea, what say we replace them with cement next year?... Who owns that old building across the road?... And what are they going to do with it?... Basketballers say that they could have a winning team with just one 6'5" centre. There are two people over at Dal. who fit that description and they are from Charlottetown... Do you remember the Tory Tiger?... Will someone tell those damned trains to stop hooting in the middle of the night?... While we're on the subject of noises who rings those bells on Sunday morning?... Several people would like to see the Coffee Shop hours extended. The place does little business before 9:30 at night and then closes one hour later... Next year a general B.A. course will be offered here. No major, no minor, no thesis, just a degree... A very old S.D.U. calendar says the reason the campus was put away out here was to keep the students away from the wild life of Charlottetown. That sort of dates the Roll-A-Way... A group wants to start an "Over 21" club on campus. You would have to be 18 to join... Spring Football was given a kick in the rear the other day. Just as they were about to begin they were told that they would have to leave because the High School was going to have a basketball practice. Who runs this place anyway?... The Fire Escape windows at the Mount are locked. In case of fire a key may be obtained at the Library desk... A lot of people weren't aware that there was a good deal of student apathy here... According to the administration an empty booze bottle in a room indicates that the booze was drunk in that room. We know where there are two empty Chianti bottles, don't we D.M. & D.C.?

... Somebody says that Chi Chi cheated... Did you know that they used to skate in the Halls over in Dalton? Guess they had nowhere else to go when they were told time and time again that they couldn't skate on that empty ice in the rink... Great place to have a party is on the 32 mile four hour train ride from Borden on the "Charlottetown Eventually" Railroad... Why can't you get a decent pizza around here?... or cold beer?... When we are going to get free tuition? Surely we can keep up with Newfoundland. The food isn't that bad here. Most think that it is pretty good compared to other institutional food... What happens to all the dough that is collected on fines around here? They should have enough to buy out PWC by now... Quite a few feel that the Model Parliament should have stayed in the legislature to carry on the government of this province... That was excellent printing on that U of P.E.I. sign that temporarily replaced the S.D.U. one out front. How come there was an assumption that it was an inside job?... What happened to the TV in Dalton Hall?... The gym is already out of date and it's only 16 years old... Rumbly and Grumbly apologize to anyone whom we may have offended. If there is anything that you don't like about this column see Dick Martin. He can usually be found at the Spaulding inducing young girls to write indignant letters to the Editor...

Thank you,
