The departure of Rev. Joseph Gallant from St. Dunstan's has been felt keenly by the students and Faculty. Father Gallant has been connected with the University, in various capacities, for many years. While here, his genial and kindly disposition endeared him to all. His many estimable qualities, of heart and mind will, we feel sure, make for him many friends in his new field of labour. He is now Rector of the Catholic College recently opened in the Magdalen Islands.

Since the last issue of Red and White, five young men of the province, all graduates of St. Dunstan's have been ordained to the Holy Priesthood. Father Smith, St. John, McMahon and Murphy were ordained in St. Dunstan's Cathedral, Charlottetown by His Lordship Bishop O'Leary on Dec. 21. An excellent sermon appropriate to the occasion was preached by Rev. Father Smith. Father Doyle was ordained in Calgary by His Lordship Bishop McNally. Frs. Smith and Murphy are now members of the Faculty of St. Dunstan's. Fr. St. John is stationed in Charlottetown, Fr. McMahon at Souris, Fr. Doyle is attached to the Diocese of Calgary. We hasten to congratulate the reverend gentlemen on their elevation to the Sacred Ministry. That their labours in the "Vineyard of the Lord" may be fruitful is the sincere wish of their many friends,

Mr. Frank McPhee, B. A. '14 is at present attached to the teaching Staff as professor of English. We are all pleased to see Frank's genial countenance round the corridors again after his four years of service in France.

Mr. Elmer McLellan, B. S. C. (McGill) a former student of St. Dunstan's, is also a member of the Staff this year. We congratulate Elmer on his excellent record in McGill and are very pleased to have him back with us as professor of Physics and Chemistry.

Messrs. Peter McLellan and Alphonsus McDonald, students here this year, have obtained excellent positions in one of the departments of the Civil Service. Both young men have seen Active Service. Mr. McLennan was, at the time of his appointment an associate-editor of Red and White. —Congratulations.
