Lieut. Benjamin A. Doiron who left St. Dunstan's in the fall of 1915 to take a commission in the 105th Regiment in Charlottetown, recently returned home in charge of a detachment of returned soldiers.

Privates Aneas McDonald, James McCarron and James Pratt, former students of this institution who saw over two years service in France, are back to civilian life once more.

Among those who arrived in Charlottetown with the 8th Siege Battery on May 9th were the following former students of St. Dunstan's: Gunners Leo B. McKenna, J. Ferdinand McKenna, M. M. and Bdr. Peter A. McLellan, who left here in April, 1916 to join the colors, Gr. H. Frank McPhee, B. A. and Bdr. Frank J McDonald, graduates of this University, and Gr. Philip McKenna who attended college two years prior to his enlistment. The boys are all in the best of health and appear to be none the worse of their thrilling experiences.

We are pleased to hear that Cadet Patrick B. Murphy who has been ill in the Military Hospital in Toronto, for some time past, is now on the road to recovery.
