

Jubilee of his ordination and was raised to the dignity of Domestic Prelate in recognition of his many services to religion in the Diocese.

Twenty-five years later he had the rare privilege of celebrating his Golden Jubilee, and ten years after that the still rarer one of a Diamond Celebration, at which the Bishop and almost all the Clergy of the Diocese attended to do him honor.

During the last twenty years of his life he was assisted by the Reverend Father McDougall, who bestowed upon him all the care and attention of a devoted son, and whom he loved with fatherly affection. After the demise of this beloved co-worker, feeling that he would be unable longer to bear the heavy burden of the care of the parish he retired to the City Hospital, where his last years were tenderly cared for by the devoted sisters of the institution and also by the loving ministration of his only remaining sister, Mary. After her death, which occurred only three weeks before his own, having no more ties to bind him to earth the Almighty saw fit to call this faithful servant to Himself to receive the reward of a well spent life.

The Red and White mourns with the host of his friends, and St. Dunstan's College will ever bear in holy memory the name of her first Priest Apostle, Father Dougald.

IN MEMORIAM

In the recent death of Rev. A. J. Macdonald, of Fort Augustus, this diocese lost one of its oldest and dearly beloved priests. Father Allan—the title by which every one knew him—was a priest of God for fifty-two years, and for forty-nine of these years he ministered to the same congregation. This record is rarely equalled; but we must add to this the facts that during all this time he was seldom away from his people; that he was ever a faithful, kind, loving pastor, with the spiritual interests of his people at heart. How truly could he have said: "I am the Good Shepherd,—I know mine and mine know me." Yes, truly he knew his people; he loved his people, and, that this love was mutual was clearly evidenced at his funeral. As the last absolution was given, and
