

The Funny Man

AH, GWAN.

Tho' the "flue" got us bad,
We've managed to scrape
Up a few little jokes,
And put them in shape.

Day scholar—How do you like boarding at college this year, Rupert? Quite a number of new turns to get used to, I suppose.

Rupert—You bet! At night, I turn in, and just as I am about to turn over, somebody turns up, and says: "Turn Out."

Professor—Is there such a thing as a missing link between the animal and vegetable kingdom?

Lavon—Yes sir.

Prof :—Well then, tell us what it is, Lavon.

Lavon—Hash.

Art—What part of a horse do you like best?

Charlie—I like its whinny (Winnie).

Louise—Let's have an ice-cream.

Creepy—was this your pay day?

Prof : (in Physics)—Willie, what experiment would you like to see now?

McGuill—I'd like to see the Cartesian Diver, as it BOBS up and down in the water.

Tony (after Professor had been speaking on canonization)—Do you think I will ever be canonized?

Prof :—No indeed!

Tony—Oh I don't know. There was a great many canonized during the war.

Cambell—Had you dimples when you were young?

McGuigan—No. I only got her the other night.

Prof :—Pronounce d-e-u-x l-i-v-r-e-s.

McCarvill—Ducks livers.

Skinner—I hear the residence of the Duke of Kachlach has been removed from Cardigan. Do you know where he is at present?

Pic—Yes. In Genoa.

Byrne—Splendid girl, Dorothy! I saved her life once.

Jenkins—Indeed. How?

Byrne—She said she would sooner die than be my wife, and I didn't insist.

A Mystery

Why does Creepy wear an odd sock every other morning.

Prof: (in Physics)—How did they measure that detestable German Gas?

Aucoin—by the Kill-a-meter.

Pontiac—How did you get that white on your back?

John Archey—Evidently I did not run up against you.

McDonald—What did you see at the circus?

Collins—A baby elephant.

McDonald—Were you looking in a mirror?

Howatt—What is the best piece of music they sell in the "Five & Ten", Creepy?

Trainor—Oh! Frenchy!

Jenkins—Say Buff, What kind of a fellow is Johnson?

Buff—He is very greedy—always wanting "moore."

Tony—what do you mean by the installment plan, Gent? Howatt (day dreaming)—It may be for years and it may be forever.

Johnson—Ted, do you like ponies?

Praught—No, not "much".

Rupert what is the name of the song that Gent was singing in his sleep, last night?

Reardon—And I'll take you home again Kathleen.

Prof:—What is a necessary evil?

Gavy—An alarm clock.
