CAMPUS CRISIS CRUSHED

Third President Takes Office

The austerity and political crises that hit the campus early last month have now been quelled. Following a feature article in the last edition appealing for the release of more funds to the Students' Union, the Administration took immediate action and handed over an additional eight hundred dollars to the Students' Union treasurer. This enabled the Executive to pass the RED AND WHITE budget of seventeen hundred and fifty dollars and the NFCUS budget of six hundred and fifty dollars, and to grant the Winter Carnival committee a capital outlay of one hundred dollars.

However, a few days before the financial situation was eased, Harry Callaghan, the Student Union president elected last spring, tendered his resignation. RED AND WHITE reporters were unable to find out the specific reasons that prompted his action, but it is presumed that this resulted mainly from a threatened motion of non-confidence which certain student elements were planning to propose at the first general meeting.

Following Callaghan's resignation, Lionel Gaudin, a top Senior student, was unanimously acclaimed to the office. However, two weeks later, a recurring illness forced Gaudin's resignation thus leaving the office vacant once more.

Nominations were called the following week and two candidates were presented. Rumor had it that the editor of RED AND WHITE had been planning to take part in the contest but he withdrew at the last minute. Making his second try for the presidency was Mike Lane, Senior class president and NFCUS chairman, and Bob Quigley, last year's and this year's Yearbook editor. Ballotting took place on November 30, and the result gave Quigley an overwhelming majority of 210 votes to Lane's 115.

Bob Quigley has already settled down in his new post, but as students are now in the midst of semester exams, he has decided to postpone all Council and general meetings until January '63.

RED AND WHITE extends congratulations to Bob and wishes him every success in fulfilling the duties of his office.

"I dreamt I beat St. Dunstan's in my maidenform bra," yelled the Dalhousie Gazette. How do you like this for an answer? Even the referees show signs of joy as the Saints carry out a blistering slaughter on the Dal Tigers.

Winter Carnival for S. D. U.

At long last, St. Dunstan's is to have a Winter Carnival. Such was the news released by John Dunphy, the Chairman of the Carnival Committee. After a great deal of planning by the various committees set up to organize this event, the idea was submitted to the Administration who, after due consideration, granted permission for the committee to carry out its plans.

An endeavor which is expected to excite unprecedented enthusiasm and campus spirit, the Carnival will take place on January 31, and February 1, and 2. It is designed to correspond with St. Dunstan's Day, which previous to this year was the only gala affair that existed. Although Mr. Dunphy did not release any concrete details, he did insinuate that no effort will be spared in guaranteeing the students of St. Dunstan's one of the best winter carnivals which will be held across the Canadian campuses this year.

The committee plans to bring internationally acclaimed entertainment to the campus as a highlight of the events. Also contrived to add zest to the frolickings are numerous winter sports, social events, inter-class and inter-residence competitions, as well as a carnival ball and the choosing of a Carnival Queen. Advance sale of tickets will begin shortly after the students return from Christmas vacation.

The committee cannot stress too much the importance of having the full cooperation of each student of the University in making this, our first Winter Carnival a smashing success.

So c'mon all you people who are thinking of flunking out at Christmas. Stick around and take part in the festivities of the St. Dunstan's Winter Carnival. Let this be an incentive (a rather belated one at that) for all of you to really give it that S.D.U. try so that you may be able to call yourself an S.D.U. student in January.

MORE LOOT FOR THE S. U.

Smiles once again appeared on the faces of the members of the Executive of the Students' Union, a few weeks ago. The cause of this merriment was the news that the Administration had decided to allot an additional two dollars per student head of the general fee to the Students' Union. This means that the S. U. is now receiving seven of the twenty-five dollars to carry out the various functions of the S.U. and its dependent societies. The remainder of the general fee, as students will undoubtedly recall, remains in the hands of the Administration for the handling of Varsity sports. Despite this 'gift', the S.U. still lacks sufficient funds to carry out its programme. However, the NFCUS budget of $670 has been passed, as well as a $100 loan to the Winter Carnival Committee in order that it might get its plans on the road to completion. The A.A.A. has also presented a $90 budget to subsidize the '62-'63 intra-mural hockey schedule. Should, perchance, there be any additional funds 'kicking around', the S.U. will be only too glad to remove the burden of possessing such funds from someone's hands.

CAMPUS LIBERAL RECEIVES NATIONAL APPOINTMENT

Ken McCaffery, the immediate past-president of the S.D.U. Liberal Club, has been appointed temporary member of the Policy Committee of the Canadian University Liberal Federation.

His term of office is contemporaneous with the term of office of the executive of the Canadian University Liberal Federation, and it is his responsibility to ensure that this organization studies and considers, in a responsible manner, the several issues that face the people of Canada and presents its views on these issues to the leadership of the Liberal Party of Canada.

In keeping with the progressive philosophy of Liberalism, his responsibility also extends to the initiation of policy study and discussion. His special responsibility is the continuous and intensive study of such issues as are of the greatest concern to the people of Canada.

He has held the position of president of the S.D.U. Liberal Club for the past year. With the exception of the U.N.A., the Liberal party is the only political party thus far organized on campus.

MARITIME ARTIST LECTURES

Recently the Prince Edward Island Art Association invited an internationally known artist to lecture in Charlottetown. For the last few years he has been both professor and resident artist at Mount Allison University in Sackville. Mr. Alen Coleville spoke to local artists and art appreciators on different trends in modern art and the rules of intuition and reason in the composition of a painting.

Mr. Coleville showed slides of eleven of his new pictures not, as he said, to be egotistic, but to demonstrate quickly and concisely his position and views in the world of art. Many of the people assembled in the library of Montgomery Hall asked him to explain why he practices realism in a period when most other artists lean strongly towards abstraction. Although everyone was not convinced by his reply, he supported his stand brilliantly and lucidly.

"Why is art not flourishing in the Maritimes?" another gentleman inquired. Artists tend to gather in an area where there is a lot of money. Mr. Coleville explained this cynical answer by saying that art flourishes when a civilization or society is productive in every aspect of life, including commerce. Consequently, Maritime art will "pick up" when the Maritime area itself becomes more dynamic.

STUDENTS STAGE WALKOUT

General dissatisfaction over the food situation came to a head last week when about one hundred and fifty male resident students staged a protest walkout from the refectory during the lunch hour. The dissatisfaction reached its climax the previous evening when students, displeased with the quality of the meal served during supper, created a mild disturbance by sporadically tapping knives and forks on the table.

The demonstration, apparently led by students from the Sophomore and Junior classes actually took place before meals were served, although many were seen gulping down the milk and dessert before leaving the refectory. Most of the Freshmen followed the lead of the upper classmen, but the majority of Seniors stayed put. The wildcat action took place before any of the students had considered bringing the matter to the attention of the University authorities. Ironically, the Chairman of the Grievance Committee to whom grievances of this nature should be presented for action, remained seated at his table. So also did many members of the Students' Union executive.

After the protest walkout produced no results, the organisers drew up a petition which was submitted to the Grievance Committee for further action. At the time of going to press, the situation seemed to have been somewhat improved.

NATIONAL PRESIDENT

Mr. Stewart Goodings, the National President of the National Federation of Canadian University Students, visited the S. D. U. campus on November 10 and 11.

Mr. Goodings, a graduate of Queens' University in 1962, was elected at the XXVI National Congress of N.F.C.U.S., and is carrying out one of his presidential duties, visiting the campus of every member university.

While here the National President met with the N.F.C.U.S. committee and outlined some of the projects which could be undertaken by the local committee of this nation-wide organization: the discount service (special discounts at stores in town), a local seminar on the aim of education, and the clerical administration of the external affairs of the Students' Union. Mr. Goodings later met the Students' Union President and Vice President.
