We are pleased to report that Mr. Edwin Kelly, a graduate of last year, has entered upon the study of Theology at the Grand Seminary, Quebec,

Jas. A. McDougall, one of last year's professors, is now studying Medicine at McGill University, and according to latest reports from King Street is making remarkable progress.

O. C. Trainor (centre) '15, having abandoned the unremunerative occupation of disseminating ichnographical, geographical and polemiographical information, is now devoting his rare talents to the study of Hippocratism.

Henry Crepeau '15 is now studying law at Laval University, preparatory, we may say, to entering the political arena.

Glen Morrissey of the '15 class is now residing at Prince Rupert, B. C.

Mr. "Fatty" Conway '15 is this year engaged in the study of dentistry at Baltimore Dental College.

Andre Lessard '15 has begun the study of Medicine in his native province.

Basil Gorman '14 is now in France fighting for his king and country.

Messrs Wm. McLellan, J. Poirier and J. Blanchard, old students of St. Dunstons, are now engaged in the study of Dentistry at Tuft's College.

W. E. Williams, a former student of St. Dunstan's, who obtained his degree of M. D. from McGill in 1914, and who has since taken a post-graduate course at Harvard, has opened an office on Queen Street, Charlottetown.

We are sorry to learn that A. E. B. Murphy, who volunteered for the front some time ago, is now in the hospital, suffering from an attack of appendicitis.

Wm. J. Grant '09, who received his degree of M. D. from McGill last year, is now in France, having joined the Army Medical Corps.

We are pleased to see that Mr. Gerald McCarthy of the class of '10 has been appointed inspector of public schools for West Prince.
