

THE TWO MACS

Maggie met a little girl and took her to a show,
For that was quite the proper thing and Maggie wasn't slow,
He handed out a pleasant line according to his rule
And everything went swimmingly, like pious days at school.

The show was good, the lady fair, all things were going well When Maggie spied another dame, and down from grace he fell,

What makes the lad take such a chance, can't he the danger see?

"Between two stools he'll strike the ground," his comrades all agree.

Now number one sees number two, the fat is in the fire,
To danger blind the sheik keeps on, his fate is drawing nigher,

Said number one to number two, "let's walk out on this guy,"
And that's the tale of how Two Macs put Maggie all awry.
