

THE LAST WORD

By
Dorothy M. Morris

Hi there,
Greetings and salutations — how's that for "The Last Word"? More like "The end" wouldn't you say? By the time you get to this page you are reading just about the last word on everything in the first seven pages anyway. At last you have come to the Co-ed's page after completely and fully digesting all the intellectual material in the rest of the paper. You must be mentally exhausted.

After all, you read all the "big" stories and headlines on the front page. Unless you are highly intellectual you skipped the Editorial page, full of profound thoughts and ideas, with the remote idea of returning to it later. After plowing courageously on through the other feature and news articles, you came to the "Page of Pages," especially for the female sex, the Sports Page. With it comes football. Didn't it make you girls drool just to think of the impressive physiques of our handsome football players? Now after ten minutes sighing over the football players, you have arrived at the back page.

What were you expecting to find back here — a gossip column? Sorry, not this year. As Co-ed Editor, I extend an open invitation to every co-ed, whether resident or day-student, to feel free to submit articles concerning any topic on which she wishes to write. Remember this is the paper of the students, written by the students, for the students. It expresses, therefore, the thoughts and ideas of the students, giving the rest of the campus a chance to understand how their fellow classmates feel on topics that they believe are important.

We close with the thought — "Those who give up easily don't have much to give."

Class '62 Where Are You

This is a search for the six girl graduates of the 1962 class. If you look carefully, you will find one still on campus doing post-graduate work for her Bachelor of Education degree. She is Patsy L., the first of our three Patricias.

Elm Street School in Summerside is our next stop. Patsy Mc N., the red-headed Irish poetess is teaching there. Patty G., the last of our Pats is also teaching in Summerside at the Elementary School.

Our "Big Bad John" fan, Fran MacD., has taken up the book and is teaching at Park-dale Junior High. Out at Spring Park School, Virginia MacD. is ruling with an iron hand. The Latin scholar of the group, Mrs. Baker, also in Charlottetown, has returned to teaching this year.

Only one little bird flew the coop. Our Stella H. is in Hamilton, teaching good ol' French at Bishop Ryan High School, and keeping an eye on her better half.

Together with Sister Mary Ida, who led five of these women into the teaching profession, we look forward to their success.

Students' Responsibilities

(By Marilyn Sutherland)
September 21, 1962 marked for many of us the beginning of the end. The so called "Seniors" have now reached the last phase of their academic career here at S.D.U.

And what does this mean for all of us? It simply means that the effort of the last three years is now in the past and the part that it will play in our future is what we have to look forward to.

Three years may seem a long time to people such as Freshmen who have to look ahead. But to those of us who look back, it certainly has gone by all too quickly.

Speaking for myself and a number of others in the same category, I can truthfully say that we have made a lot of dreadful mistakes during our three years' struggle.

Our big mistake, was that of getting off on the wrong foot.

What can be done about it all now? Your guess is as good as mine! I am quite sure that this is exactly what is puzzling the majority of the members of the class of '63.

To begin with, Freshman year usually starts off with a bang, and ends up with a bang. Others start off with a whim and end up with a slam. Slam back where they started from!

Are you going to let that happen to you? Decide now. Don't wait for Spring.

During the past several years, it has been a wonderful experience to participate in so many extra-curricular activities which has contributed a great deal to rounding out my education. I sincerely hope that you will begin now to take advantage of these things, but by all means let the advantage be in such a proportion as not to allow more important affairs to fall through.

An Idea To Be Considered

By Mary Donovan and Catherine Duffy

A small college in Michigan has applied the maxim, "A change is as good as a rest," regarding summer vacation. Instead of two semesters, the year is broken into four quarters with a short, staggered vacation. The time previously allotted for summer vacation is used for practical training in various fields — anything from emergency wards to social work in Africa.

Educators argue: "Why let the students rest for 3-4 months, their minds academically blank? This practical training is an aid in choosing a field after graduation."

Others disagree, stating that many students depend on money made on summer vacation to pay for their education.

Although this plan is in the experimental stage, it does deserve some consideration.

Lady Debaters Meet

The first meeting of the Girls' Debating Society of the season was held September 27 in the Main building. Several members, including Dr. Brendon O'Grady, moderator of the society, were present.

The chairman, Elaine Green, asked Dr. O'Grady to speak on debating procedure. The purpose of holding trial debates, he explained, is to choose from the group four debaters to make up the two Intercollegiate teams. The members then drew up topics for the trial speeches.

St. Dunstan's will be debating against Mount Allison University and Dalhousie University in the coming year.

An executive meeting was held on Thursday, October 4, to set a date for the trial speeches.

Co-eds Ready To Roll

The Sigma Delta Sorority officially began a promising new year with a meeting, Mon., Oct. 1. The election of an executive staff, previously designated for last spring, was held and the new officers took over their positions. Marcia Arsen-

Integration On Campus

One of the unique qualities of S.D.U. is the unlimited segregation of the sexes. Entering the campus in autumn one notices a group of people under the heading "Boys" huddled together enjoying each other's dry comments on the group huddled opposite them, namely "Girls." If a girl does approach a boy and sits beside him in class or vice versa, everyone looks and says to themselves, "Gee, I didn't think she was like that." Perhaps the professor of the class might make a remark. If a few dates occur, the couple is automatically "going steady."

College is a time for the mixing of the sexes, not for looking at each other suspiciously. It is also a time for finding out each other's interests and most of all for discovering the fact that there is someone else in this wide world besides "Me". As individuals, boys or girls are fine, but as herds in which they move around they cannot be expected to think as individuals, but merely as a member of the unknown masses. There will be a great deal of harmony if both sexes come closer together in a casual way. We think that the boys as well as the girls realize that this is the reason for so much disharmony on our campus. How about everybody perking up and being just a little more friendly to the opposite sex.

ault, senior from S'side, P.E.I. was elected president; Noreen Cameron, junior arts student, also of S'side, became the new vice president. Elaine Green, senior from Central Bedeque, P.E.I. was awarded the position of sec-treasurer by acclamation. The girls also chose Mary Ellen Goodwin, Rumford, Maine, as sophomore representative and Veronica Swift, Minto, N.B. as freshman representative.

The several committee chairmanships and the question of a faculty advisor were left open. These points as well as plans for the new season will be taken up at the next meeting, within the week. Judging from the spirited argumentation in which this first meeting ended, the coming year should find the sorority sparkled with new life.

Hiya Freshettes

Do you belong to any of the societies or committees on campus? You don't? You mean to say that you haven't even asked to join one? Remember that there is at least one Freshman Representative on every campus committee besides all the openings in societies and groups.

Here are some of the societies you could join: NFCUS (National Federation of Canadian University Students), CFCCS (Catholic Federation of Canadian University Students), WUSC (World University Service of Canada), MIDL (Boys' Maritime Intercollegiate Debating League), MGIDL (Maritime Girls' Intercollegiate Debating League), the S.D.U. Bank, the Drama Society, The Glee Club, the Men's Sodality, the Women's Sodality, the Yearbook Committee, the RED AND WHITE (newspaper), the Engineers' Society (engineers only), A.A.A. (Amateur Athletic Association), the Social Committee, the Men's Choir, the Women's Choir, the Political Organizations (Liberals and Conservatives), and last but not least Intramural Sports for the boys including football, basketball and hockey.

Surely from this list you could pick one group to join. After all, the joining of one of these societies does not mean the neglect of your class work. The purpose of attending university is to develop socially as well as mentally. Belonging to one of these groups will tie you more closely to the university and to the students and will make you more appreciative of all that St. Dunstan's has to offer you. So why not inquire today? Find out who is on the executive of the group you wish to join and then ask if you may become a member. Come on, don't wait for spring, do it now.
