

MAC'S RUMBLINGS & GRUMBLINGS

WELCOME ALUMNI

And a huge welcome to our alumni, convening here Saturday and Sunday. Since 1941, there have been about 875 graduates, around 23 with summa cum laudes. Eight of these 23 were members of a religious order. Many of the graduates are now members of the faculty. This is the first homecoming weekend in the history of the university and a lot of the old grade will be flabbergasted at the many changes around here in the past few years. It wasn't too long ago that St. Dunstan's was primarily a pre-seminary school. Has that ever changed.

CLASS PARTIES

The situation at SDU is getting bad. St. Dunstan's has a lot more off-campus affairs than most other universities in the Maritimes. This will have to stop soon. We will have to go back to teen-age type dances in the gym surveyed by a duly appointed chaperone. The problem is NOT booze. At this stage of the game it is impossible to have a decent bash without the sauce. The problem is fights. At the last two off-campus parties, there were at least twenty-five main bouts and multi second-rate standoffs. Most of the combatants do not go to the University, although some do. The chief source of trouble comes from High Schoolers and Townies. These people will have to be ruled out once and for all. The next step is to pay a few campus cops (big ones) to break up the fisticuffs. If these two steps (or similar ones) don't work, start decorating the gym and acquiring a taste for coke.

NO ICE IN THE RINK . . .

Most of the teams in the Maritime Intercollegiate Hockey League have been practicing for three or four weeks. The Saints just started. We just got the ice in last week. The reason that the ice was so long in coming is $$$$. They didn't want to start putting it in in October because the electric bill would have to be paid from the first of that month. So, the Saints open the season with half as much practice as anyone else.

When asked what he thought about the sign-in rule, Owen Jay replied, "It eats Poo" Every university or college paper in the country has a dirty word in one or more of its articles. This seems to be a criterion for a campus paper. So, here goes Sorry, Mac, but editorial policy Editor.

THE RESIDENCES

Whoever is in charge of the residences should take a survey of showering facilities in the buildings in question. Fourth floor Main has about seven, but only one of them is usable. Memorial isn't much better off. No wonder this place smells The liquor laws in this province need a major overhaul in almost all aspects. The licensing situation is ridiculous. The only places in Charlottetown that can get a licence are chubby little holes with a shuffleboard. The intervals on television when they black out the beer ads during football or hockey games are unbelievable. Cold beer is unattainable because there is no competition in the selling of the golden ale. The result of the Victorian laws re booze is exactly the opposite of what legislators intended. Charlottetown has more bootleggers, etc., per capita than any other town in the East. If you want a graphic example of what happens when liquor is practically or completely banned, just look at the antics of one Al Capone a few years back in Chicago.

RADIO S.D.U.

Radio SDU is gradually shaping up. A group on campus is making plans. As soon as these are definite, the administration and the radio station will be approached Would you mind going all the way down to the Provincial Vocational Institute for the Saints' basketball games, the gym there is much better suited to the sport than the one we have on campus. If the team continues to play in the Alumni Gymnasium, someone is going to get killed smashing into the wall behind the basket. However, the team won't go to the PVI if the fans can't fill the place There was a large crowd of Saints' fans at the Mount A game last week. Unfortunately the impression we left is not likely to enhance the reputation of S.D.U. abroad. Fights spoiled the whole scene When another university travels to another province for an Intercollegiate game, the actions of the fans reflect only upon the university. For some strange reason, the actions of S.D.U. fans reflect not only on the university but on the whole province as well Someone asked Tim McGrath if he wanted a drink. His reply, "Wine not?" Asked what he thought of the sign-in rule, Leon Berrouard replied, "I think it eats Poo too."

United States Dormies Drink Legal Booze

WASHINGTON (CUP) — A rule prohibiting drinking in dormitories has been reversed by Georgetown University.

The new policy allowing all men to keep both beer and hard liquor in their rooms, was "designed to help students develop personal responsibility", Georgetown officials said.

Authorities who have studied the campus drinking issue have concluded "the formation of young men is facilitated when they're given the freedom to choose whether to use alcoholic beverages," said Georgetown student personnel director.

Officials also said the move was made to end the pretense of enforcing an unenforceable rule — a primary consideration, according to several students.

finding another girl, here are suggestions: Marian College 4-9061; St. Mary's 4-9093; the Ponderosa 4-8159.

Q: Our history professor said he'd give us an electric clock for Christmas if it would get us to class on time. In our apartment, one bedroom is pink and one blue; the living room is yellow, the kitchen orange, and the bathroom green. Our slippers are black, brown, purple, green and silver. Now, for proper color combination, what color clock should we get and where should we hang it?

—The Group of Five

A: Hopeless! Buy a cuckoo clock and hang it in the closet.

Q: How come the girls don't have later permissions here?

—Bill LeClair

A: To save scandal — they turn into pumpkins at midnight. They say that Prince Charlie and the Knights and Ladies of the Battered Table are trying to work out an antidote with the King's Court.

Dear Murph

Dear Readers,

Thank you for your letters. My mother can't believe I actually answer a letters column — it's seven months since I wrote a letter home. Confidential to Earl: That's what you get for living in a house behind a fire hydrant.

—Murph

Q: So I finally got up the courage to invite a guy to the Co-ed Party; we had a real swinging time, too — at least I did. But now he thinks I'm after him and he hardly even speaks. What can I do, besides never go to a Coed Party again.

—Co-ed

A: They will do that, and the only thing is to ask someone you don't care about, even if you never speak to him again. It's really too cruel to let them know that a girl's three favorite guys are crossed off automatically because she doesn't want them to know they're her favorites. She asked a friend instead, and hey presto! No further ahead with her dream man and minus a friend. But if you're who I think you are, don't worry. That guy will fall for a helpless routine anytime. Start dropping books in his vicinity, and good luck!

Q: My roommate thinks I'm getting too friendly with her boyfriend. What will I do? I'm just naturally friendly.

—Desperate

A: Well, yes, but do you have to walk home from the Coffee Shop between them?

Q: What can I do with a roommate who has burned 600 sticks of incense since Treasure Van?

—Yankee Dalton

A: If you're lucky the Draft

Board will reclassify him. Until then, there are some gas masks at the war surplus store in Charlottetown.

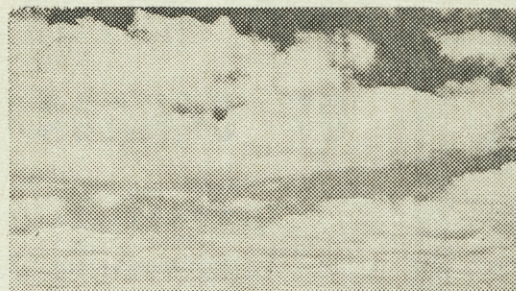

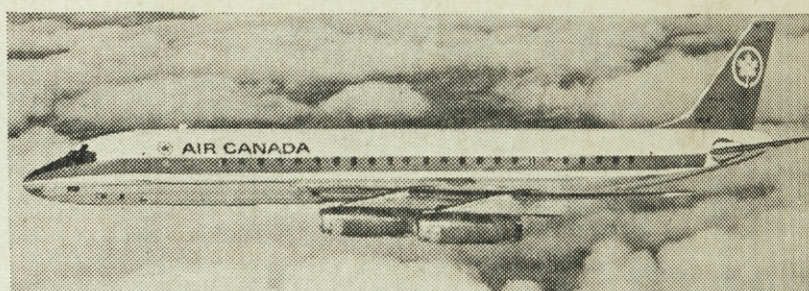

Q: My steady and I both wear glasses, and the click-click on the front doorstep on Saturday nights keeps my mother awake (so she says). What's the answer to the situation?

A: I suggest either contacts or less contacts.

Q: I need help in the worst way. I am a lead guitar player and a nice guy. I am going out with a girl who doesn't even care a little bit about me. This is not the worst — I can't seem to meet any new girls. What is your advice to a very lonely and frustrated fun-seeker?

—Chord of G.

A: Your problem is your guitar. Even if she loves you, what girl wants to go out with an electric guitar, fifty feet of cord, and a seventy-pound amplifier? But if you're set on
