

A Welcome From The Student's Union President

President Harry Callaghan, standing at the entrance to the Main building, receives a salute from the student body.

My first function as president of the Students' Union is of welcoming you, the student body, to our fine University. For some it will be their first year at Saint Dunstan's, and we of the Executive Council wholeheartedly wish you the very best for the coming academic year. Yet, for others it means a return to our fair school, and I am sure they join with me in these warm words of welcome extended to the 200 plus new students we have this year.

We of the Executive Council, stress the importance of co-operation of its members. There are many jobs to be done and many offices to be filled in our extra-curricular affairs at Saint Dunstan's, all of which are rewarding in one way or another. These jobs must be done, so don't be too shy, too proud, too humble or too scared to volunteer for one or more of these, as long as they do not mean the loss of an academic year.

As you are well aware, there are a lot of "greenhorns" active in our various societies on campus, and I'm sure I'm speaking for all when I say that we are quite willing to learn through experience and we would be only too glad to accept any new ideas which any of you should have to offer. So if you would bear with us for the time being, and when you notice an opportunity to lend a helping hand or offer some words of constructive criticism, we would be only too glad to accept them with many thanks.

In closing, I would like to wish you every success in the coming year, both spiritually and academically. Please give it the old college try and you will find that it will pay dividends in the end. Also now that we have taken a big step in our athletics here at Saint Dunstan's get behind our teams and give them 100% moral support. Keep well posted on all coming games.

National NFCUS Seminar

By Bob Quigley

Carleton University, on the outskirts of the beautiful city of Ottawa, was the setting for this year's National NFCUS Seminar, the fifth such seminar to be held in as many years.

The topic discussed from September 1-7 was "The University in Canadian Life."

After registration on Sept. 1, the seminar participants were hosted to a welcoming party by the Carleton Committee. It was here that we were introduced to many of the delegates from across Canada. Sunday, Sept. 2, we were given a tour of Ottawa and shown the main highlights of the nation's Capital.

At the opening banquet a welcoming address was given by Mr. Davidson Dunston, President of Carleton University, and also well known for his appearances on the TV Series, "Close Up."

During the week-long discussions a host of topics on the subject "The University in Canadian Life" were treated by the eminent professors and business men from across the nation.

Speakers included Dr. J. H. S. Reid, Executive Secretary, Canadian Association of University Teachers, who spoke on the "Development of Canadian Universities". Mr. Ray Jones, President of the E. B. Eddy Co., talked to the delegates on the "Aims of University Education: A Realistic Appraisal from the Industrial Point of View." Dr. Henry Hicks, former Premier of Nova Scotia and now Vice-President of Dalhousie University, spoke on "The Aims of University Education: A Realistic Appraisal from the Academic Point of View." Dr. Godkin Kaplan from Dalhousie's Shipology Department gave a stimulating discourse on the "Problems of University Freedom."

An extremely controversial dissertation was presented by Dr. Alan Mewett, moderator of a panel on "University Responsibility." He discreetly chose to speak last on the subject, and when he did, dropped a bombshell on the seminar participants. Dr. Mewett suggested that university education be made "As unattractive as possible" in order to get rid of the people who should not be at university. He further went on to say that Canadian university enrolment should be reduced to 10,000, choosing this figure from the postulate that 90 per cent of the students in Universities are there for practical purposes. It is this group, looking only for a good paying job and social prestige, who are "breaking down" the Canadian system of university education. The theory that the university is an "Ivory Tower" where the student can seclude himself to study was rejected by Civil Service Commissioner Paul Pelletier's statement by saying "It is inconceivable that the University has no responsibility to society."

Mr. Pelletier also spoke of a greater regimentation in Canadian Universities as being dangerous. "One university is all too frequently just a reflection of another one", he said, calling for more individuality.

Prior to Wednesday morning's panel, Professor Johnston, the main speaker, outlined several steps that might improve "the social responsibility of the university."

Other distinguished speakers at the seminar were Dr. Mofat St. Woodside, Principal of University College, University of Toronto; M. Pierre Dansereau, former Chemistry Professor at University of Montreal; Dr. Geoffrey Andrew, Executive Director at Canadian Universities Foundation.

The Seminar concluded on the evening of the sixth with an address by Dr. J. Francis Leddy, Vice-President, University of Saskatchewan and Honorary President of NFCUS.

The delegates from St. Dunstan's were Paul Foster and Robert Quigley both of whom would be interested in answering any queries anyone may have concerning the Seminar.

Greetings From The Students' Union

At the beginning of this, another academic year, the Students' Union welcomes you to the St. Dunstan's campus.

Whether you are here for the first or last time, the fact remains that student government will exist but will not function without the help of the entire student body.

The Students' Union aims to promote the welfare of students in general by administering finances and by regulating and controlling various student activities in the best interests of the student body and the university.

A number of smaller organizations such as N.F.C.U.S., C.F.C.C.S., and W.U.S.C., along with the M.I.D.L, Drama Society, and the Social Committee, function under the jurisdiction of the Students' Union in an effort to provide you with the opportunities to develop your talents as well as your qualities of leadership and administration.

During the past several years, the Students' Union has been faced with a serious situation — that of extremely low attendance at general student graphs, corresponding with the fact that we are to have a profitable year in student government, then this problem must be overcome at once. There is certainly no better time or place to do this than at the very first general body meeting.

The executive will once again endeavour to lower the percentage required to constitute a quorum. We ask you to take a special interest in this matter and to participate actively in the forthcoming general body meetings.

The Students' Union is looking forward to a year in which student interest will reach its education.

Reaction to Dr. Mewett's plan was swift and divided; some students stood and endorsed his plan, others rose and called it a lot of "gobbledygook". It was probable that Dr. Mewett was thinking of himself and other professors who at exam time have to wade through a lot of student tripe.

The theory that the university is an "Ivory Tower" where the student can seclude himself to study was rejected by Civil Service Commissioner Paul Pelletier's statement by saying "It is inconceivable that the University has no responsibility to society."

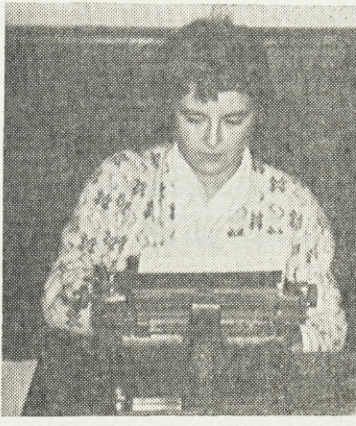

Mr. Pelletier also spoke of a greater regimentation in Canadian Universities as being dangerous. "One university is all too frequently just a reflection of another one", he said, calling for more individuality.

Other distinguished speakers at the seminar were Dr. Mofat St. Woodside, Principal of University College, University of Toronto; M. Pierre Dansereau, former Chemistry Professor at University of Montreal; Dr. Geoffrey Andrew, Executive Director at Canadian Universities Foundation.

The Seminar concluded on the evening of the sixth with an address by Dr. J. Francis Leddy, Vice-President, University of Saskatchewan and Honorary President of NFCUS.

The delegates from St. Dunstan's were Paul Foster and Robert Quigley both of whom would be interested in answering any queries anyone may have concerning the Seminar.

"Where is that darn 's'" laments Secretary Marilyn Sutherland, as she touches Students' Union Executive minutes.

highest level. We are also looking forward to having you help us in reaching our objectives.

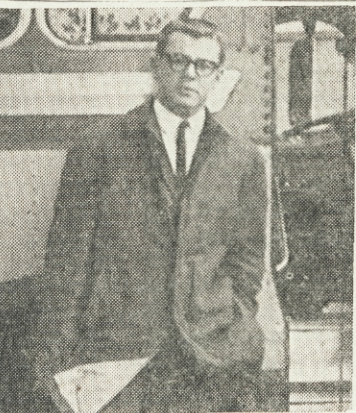

We need a lot of push to keep it moving. This is where you, the students, can show your strength. Build a strong student government now — it will help you later.

Anyone, from the Campus Bottle Collector to the President of the Students' Union, will tell you that there is an awful lot to be gained and learned from holding an executive position on the campus.

Red & White which was founded for literary and educational purposes is much like every other college paper. It affords you an opportunity to voice your opinions on any subject; so take advantage now.

To the Editor, we say "thanks" for this wonderful opportunity and best wishes for a successful year. And to the Class of '66, may your academic career at S.D.U. be a happy and successful one.

Colin McMillan, Vice President, has a long hard ride ahead of him, but with the big wheels of determination under him, his journey should be a successful one.

Nous voilà donc encagés ou préférez-vous isolés, sur notre île pour une autre année scolaire. La première question que "Gros Jambon" m'apostrophe arrivant fut: "quelle date finit-on en mai encore?" Prends courage mon garçon, il ne faut pas lâcher. C'est tout de même assez compréhensible, car après de belles et longues vacances passées "auprès de sa blonde" (car elles sont presque toutes blondes à présent...)

Il est regrettable d'annoncer à nos admirateurs et admiratrices que pour des raisons incontrôlables de la part de certains membres, le fameux groupe "les gamins" ne évoluera pas cette année. Louis a perdu sa voix dans les mines du Labrador et Jacques a vendu ses cordes de guitare pour la fabrication de "nettoye pipe". Pourtant l'année s'annonçait fructueuse: Tom avait même suivi des cours de direction au conservatoire de Montréal c'était; il devait en profiter de même pour apprendre un instrument. Le diapason.

Increased costs for this seminar mean that fewer delegates will be able to participate in 1963. The average cost per student will be at least $1,200.
