College Chronicle

---

The end of the College year has come, and, although it brings much joy, yet there is also a tinge of sadness; for we know that it will never again be our pleasure to tread the same path with some of those to whom we now bid farewell. We fully realize now that life is only a pilgrimage, and that each one has his individual road to follow.

We must now write "finis" to the Chronicle of 1923-1924, and then lay aside our pen. We are sorry that our department was not better, but "quad scripsimus, scripsimus."

We wish a joyous vacation to all the students, and to the graduates happiness and prosperity in whatever course of life they choose.

CONCERT

On Wednesday, April 9th the Glee Club presented in the college hall, a concert entitled "A Bundle of Rags." If we be permitted to pun, we would say that they were good patches. We congratulate the different members on their excellent performance, and thank the Glee Club for the evening's entertainment.

The following was the programme.

GOD SAVE THE KING

Director of Choruses—Rev. N. Poirier

Orchestra—A. Gaudet, Prof. Jennings, F. Richard, A. Painchaud, B. Johnston, C. Arsenault, C. Arsenault.

Pianists:—C. Arsenault, H. Happeny.

Rev. Joseph Gallant entertained the students with motion picture slides on April 30th. The Rev. Father showed the beautiful, the grotesque, the joyful, and sorrowful sides of life. It could easily be seen that the students were enjoying it; for at one time the hall would resound with bursts of merriment as some funny predicament was flashed upon the screen, and a few minutes afterwards all would be hushed and, still, as a scene from the life of our Lord, or an incident from Longfellow's Evangeline was shown. At the end of the concert a vote of thanks was moved by Richard O'Neill, and seconded by Alban Farmer, and presented by him to the Rev. Father on behalf of the student body. Father Gallant responded in a few appropriate words.

CADET CORPS

The Cadet Corps this year was under the command of Mr. F. J. McMillan. Although the time for drill was short, the students did good work, and kept up the record of former years; in fact we think that they even surpassed former records. The corps were inspected on May 14th, by Captain H. M. Logan, District Cadet Officer of Military District No. 6, Halifax. After the inspection, Captain Logan addressed the cadets. He congratulated them on their excellent showing and gave some suggestions for future work.

Professor Fleming has returned to Oxford for further study.
