

les which govern the souls and destiny of men; it is a need to become steeped in the Catholic Church, in her certainty of truth, in the stability of her principles, in the profundity of her appreciation of problems, and in her ability to reach decisions conducive to the good of all mankind; it is the need to develop the strength of character necessary to resist the immoral suasions of the world, the flesh, and the devil. These are the strengths which St. Dunstan's can give you if you are disposed to accept them. Those of you who approach, in humility and poverty of soul, the fountain of faith and knowledge treasured within these walls, need not fear the excesses and caprices of social and political extremists running rampant in the world to-day, for with the fervour born of a just righteousness, and inspired by an angry Christ driving money-changers from a temple, you will be among the crusading apostles of a new day, shielded by the breast-plate of virtue, and armed for the fight with weapons forged in truth and tempered in the certain and unfailing light of faith.

Graduates of '57

EDWARD BAIRD — ARTS

Eddie was born at Webster's Corner on January 16, 1933, received his primary education in the district school and entered St. Dunstan's High School in the Fall of '49. Having completed his high school course, he entered the teaching profession, and, after a period of one year, he returned to S.D.U. to resume his studies. Over these four years his record as a member of the Executive of the Dramatics Society for four consecutive years is somewhat of an achievement. In addition to this task of directing the affairs of the Society, Eddie has found time to participate in some of their productions, which have been noted for their excellence in the past few years. In 1956, Eddie was appointed manager of the University's first year book, and in this particular venture he exhibited the qualities of hard work, enthusiasm, and self-sacrifice, indicative of the kind of man that he is, which made the endeavor a marked success.

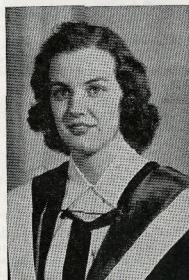

As for the future, it is apparent what God has in store for a man endowed with such qualities. To you, Eddie, St. Dunstan's wishes the very best, with the fervent admonition that you will ever remember her in your efforts and prayers, for you are so much a part of her.

ANNE MARIE BURGE — ARTS

Marie was born in the thriving community of Five Houses, near St. Peters Bay, on a beautiful summer night in July 1938. She received her primary education at Fortune Road School, and her secondary education at Notre Dame Academy. Being quite apt in studies in her early years, she was promoted several grades, and reached high school at a very early age. This, along with the fact that she took a combined course in Grade XI and Grade XII, is the reason why she is the youngest member of her class.

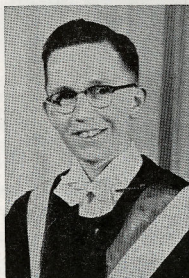

In 1953, she arrived at Saint Dunstan's to begin her course for an Arts degree. Here Marie was no stranger, for already her six brothers and sisters had attended or were attending college. During her four years, she has taken part in most student activities, and has been a valued member of her class, attested to by the fact that her classmates elected her their vice-president for life. Of a cheerful personality and ready wit, she has made many friends, and these now wish her success in the nursing career which she intends to pursue.

MARY GERTRUDE CAMERON — ARTS

Born January 3, 1935, Mary has lived in Saint John, N. B., in Tignish and in Summerside. At the age of six she went skipping off to Tignish Convent with a copy of Baby, Sally and Joe under her arm. A few years later she proceeded to St. Mary's Academy and then to Summerside High. In the fall of 1954, having in the meantime exchanged her Baby, Sally and Joe for Caesar's Gallic Wars, she entered St. Dunstan's as a Sophomore. Mary's quiet way and winning personality have, over the past three years, made for her many friends, both on and off the campus. Not only has she been an industrious and conscientious student, but she has also taken part in such dramatic productions as The O'Gradys and the Devil, The Girl in the Rain, and Antigone. Mary has held positions in the Dramatics Society, on the W.U.S.C. committee, and in the Sigma Delta Sorority, and whenever she was appointed to a committee we could confidently expect a good job well done. She is planning to enter the field of education, and is especially interested in working with mentally retarded children.

GERALD DESMOND CONNOLLY — ARTS

Des has been giving his opinions since April 9, 1936. He was born in Charlottetown, where he received his primary education, the first few years of which were spent at West Kent School, and the remainder at Queen Square School. After successfully passing the entrance examinations, he entered Prince of Wales College in the fall of 1952. After two years of study and happy association there, he attained his high-school matriculation.

Looking ahead down the long road of the future, he felt the beckoning of St. Dunstan's, and decided to continue his studies. He entered St. Dunstan's as an Arts student in the fall of 1953. Des has participated well in support of college activities, and last year was chairman of W.U.S.C. on the campus. This year he served as chairman of the Catholic Students Mission Crusade. We know that Des' ability to make friends will carry him a long way in life.

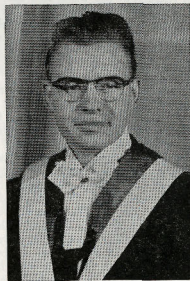

JOHN FRANCIS CONRAN — SCIENCE

Truly may this excerpt—"devout, yet cheerful; pious, not austere; to others lenient, to himself sincere."—be applied to John! But to appreciate him fully one must be fortunate enough to know him as an intimate friend. On June 4, 1935 John was born in St. John's, Newfoundland. At the age of six he entered St. Bonaventure's College and left behind him an enviable academic record when he graduated some eleven years later. He then entered the Pre-Medical Faculty of Memorial University of Newfoundland, and during his years there he proved his capabilities in the responsible positions of Treasurer of the Newman Club, and Business Manager of "The Muse"—the student newspaper.

In 1955 John transferred to the Junior year of the Science Course at St. Dunstan's. In his first year here he was a member of the Debating Society, and this year did a commendable job as Secretary-Treasurer of the Students' Union. Both at Memorial and at St. Dunstan's John has proven himself an ardent music critic, and has given many interesting talks on music appreciation. His intense knowledge of political matters gives every indication that he will eventually find his way into politics.

John leaves us this year with a Science degree and with sincere wishes for every success in the continuance of his studies in the field of Applied Science.

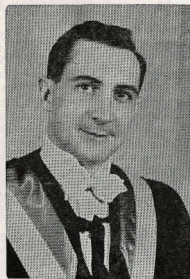

JEAN-CLAUDE DESROSIERS — ARTS

In December, 1934, the DesRosiers family was blessed with a twelfth child whom they called Jean-Claude. His tender years were passed without serious incident, except that he was all that was needed to worry his parents. He received his primary education in his native village; then followed his classical studies up to "Rhetorique" at College Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere. Then he worked for a year with the Irving Oil Co., and in the fall of '55, this blond, smiling Quebecer made his debut at S.D.U. Although his knowledge of Shakespeare's language was very limited, Jean-Claude was not long making acquaintances and he soon won the friendship of everyone.

This year, Jean-Claude was active in the Glee Club and in the French Choir; but it is probably only his closest friends who hear his best performances. He is also a contributing editor on the staff of Red and White, excels in sports such as tennis and baseball, and is proficient at figure skating.

Jean-Claude plans to further his studies next year in pursuit of a degree in commerce from S.D.U.

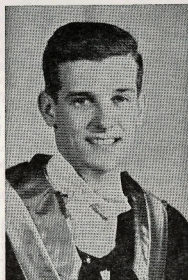

LEO BASIL DOIRON — COMMERCE

On the morning of May 30, 1934 another bark was launched upon the sea of life when Leo was born in Charlottetown. At the time, it is unlikely that anyone could have predicted the scholastic heights which Leo was to achieve, but achieve these heights he did and this year he will go forth to begin his career, well fortified by a Bachelor of Commerce degree.

Leo received his introduction to formal education when at the age of six years he registered at Queen Square School. He attended this institution for ten years and received a diploma with honors upon completion of Grade Ten. From there he proceeded to Prince of Wales College in the fall of 1951 in his pursuit of higher learning. While at Prince of Wales, Leo proved to be not only an outstanding scholar but also one capably endowed with the qualities of leadership. He held such important offices as Vice-President of the Students' Union and President of the Newman Club. Upon graduation from this institution, he made his debut on the campus of St. Dunstan's University in the fall of 1955. He proved to be every bit as popular among his new classmates as he had previously been at P.W.C., which fact was amply borne out when he was elected President of his Class during his Senior year.

Leo was not only active in the classroom, but also he participated freely in the other phases of college life such as athletics and drama. He goes forth this year from S.D.U. not only with his degree, but also with a commission as a Sub-Lieutenant (Supply) R.C.N. (Reserve), the reward of three summers' successful training with the Royal Canadian Navy.

GEORGE BRIAN DOYLE — SCIENCE

On February 25, 1956, Brian was born in Charlottetown where he received his early education at Queen Square School. He entered the Special Matriculation class of S.D.U. in the fall of 1952. The following year, Brian began his science course which he pursued with perseverance and integrity. During his sojourn at S.D.U., Brian excelled in all intramural sports and has won the esteem and admiration of both the faculty and fellow students with his humor and more than pleasing personality. In the fall of 1954, Brian joined the U.N.T.D. and has had the privilege of serving on both Canadian coasts during his summer training. This spring he will receive his commission in the Royal Canadian Navy, Reserve. Next year, Brian intends to continue his studies in the field of medicine.

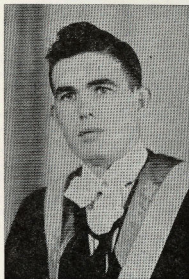

ARLENE MARY ELLEN DOWLING — ARTS

Arlene was born in Charlottetown on June 19, 1937. She received both her primary and high school education at Saint Joseph's Convent, from which she graduated in 1955. The next year found Arlene at St. Dunstan's, where for four years she proved herself an apt student and a keen participant in extra-curricular activities. She held positions in the Sigma Delta Sorority, the World University Service, the Foreign Mission Society, and the Dramatics Society.

Arlene's candid and true character won for her the friendship and admiration of all with whom she came in contact. Her interests have been so undoubtedly those of the college, that Saint Dunstan's can be sure of having in Arlene a worthy member of its Alumnae.

Her competence and ability will surely insure her becoming a valued member of the nursing profession, which she plans to enter in September.

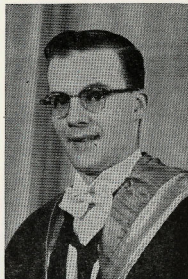

STEPHAN JAMES FITZGERALD — COMMERCE

Many of Steve's classmates and friends will be quick to recall many times and circumstances under which they heard him utter this remark,—“Ah Gee boy, that's not fair!”—and now after three years of Steve's companionship they realize how, in no small way, it does give a portrayal of his character.

“Fitz” was born on Bell Island, in Conception Bay, Newfoundland, on February 19, 1938. At an early age he moved to Gander where he received his elementary education at St. Joseph's School. With a Grade Ten diploma he entered St. Bonaventure's College, in St. John's, in the fall of '52, where with the ending of the school year of 1954 he had successfully completed his Grade XII. During his stay there he displayed his abilities, not only in sports by his active participation in intercollegiate hockey, but also in debating.

In the fall of that year Fitz transferred to St. Dunstan's where he entered the sophomore year of the Commerce faculty. In his first year here he was Secretary-Treasurer of the debating society and has been an active member ever since. He also took part in intramural basketball, softball and hockey.

Steve leaves St. Dunstan's this year with a Commerce Degree, and plans to pursue further studies in the field of Chartered Accountancy.

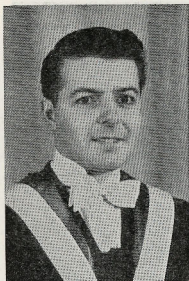

THOMAS J. FORD — SCIENCE

Tom, the eldest son of Rachel and Hamilton T. Ford, was born on January 17, 1935, in St. Paul, Minnesota. At the age of seven, he moved to Pine Bluff, Arkansas, and when he was ten, his family moved back to St. Paul again. Two years later, he accompanied his family to Franconia, New Hampshire, where he has since been a happy resident. He attended high school at Maryknoll Junior Seminary in Clark's Summit, Pa.

A change in plans brought him to Saint Dunstan's in the fall of 1953 as a Freshman. Since his entrance here, he has made a definite contribution to campus life. Besides being a class leader during all of his college career, he also took a very active part in various campus organizations. A capable member of the chapel choir, he was also appointed to the staff of Red and White in his Sophomore year as a contributing editor. In the last three years he has left a distinct imprint on the organization. His keen interest and scholarly articles earned for him the position of assistant editor in his Junior year; and this year as editor, he puts his talents to good use. Imaginative and constantly trying to improve, he introduced several innovations in Red and White which elevated and renewed interest in the publication.

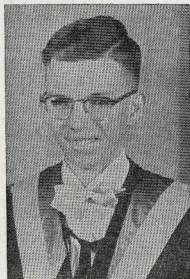

His trademark, on the rare occasions when he was not in the lab, has been his camera and photo gadget bag. These were invariably slung over his shoulder whenever any college activities were on tap, and he will leave Saint Dunstan's with numerous snapshots to remind him of his full and varied life on the campus.

Tom has been elected by the Class of '57 to deliver the valedictory. He aspires to a Bachelor of Science degree, and his future plans are centered around teaching the sciences.

HENRY URBAN GAUDET — ARTS

A Frenchman, but soft-spoken; a Canadian without apologies, a gentleman, but not stilted; a scholar, but not academic; a Christian, but Catholic; are but the seals on the document of life being compiled by Henry. Since that document began on August 19, 1934 in Tignish town, his early educational episodes took place there, and later in Montreal, where he spent two years. In the fall of 1952, the scene of the narration shifted to Saint Dunstan's where Henry entered the ranks of the Saints in Grade XII. Colorful chapters followed, drafted along the lines of leadership in extracurricular activities. These include his tenure as Vice-president of the Glee Club in 1953-54; as secretary of the club in the following year; and as secretary of the Student's Union in 1955-56. His senior year brought the responsibilities of dorm-keeper, and instructor of Latin for Grade XI. Footnotes to the narrative might include reference to Henry's valuable work as college organist, his membership in the Glee Club and French Choir, and his uncanny skill with the paste-boards. His services with the U.N.T.D. have qualified him for a commission in the Reserve Force, and with this issue, the Red and White welcomes him to the staff as chronicle editor. Henry now looks toward adding another seal to the documentary of his life, this time one of a sacramental nature, so we recommend him to your prayers.

IAN HOLLAND PAUL GILLIES — COMMERCE

In Charlottetown in August, 1934 the Gillies family were delighted to find in their midst a sober infant who was destined to be christened Ian Holland Paul.

Ian began his search for knowledge within the walls of Queen Square School to where he willingly wended his way for ten long years. Having successfully passed entrance Ian entered Prince of Wales College to complete his elementary education. In the autumn of 1953 St. Dunstan's threw open its portals to this unassuming gentlemen who was later to prove himself a worthy applicant for a Degree.

While here Ian took his studies seriously and consequently finds himself among this year's graduates. In extra-curricular activities Ian excelled in two particular phases namely, dramatics and debating. He displayed his dramatics talents as a member of the cast of Romeo and Juliet. In debating he contributed no small part to winning two Maritime Championships and one National title as a member of intercollegiate debating teams for four years. His keen interest in debating merited him the position of secretary-treasurer of the M.I.D.L. (St. Dunstan's branch) in his junior year. This year he was chosen as President of the Maritime Intercollegiate Debating League. Because of the efficient manner in which he fulfilled these duties he will be remembered as one of the ablest and most dependable of Maritime presidents.

His clear pleasant voice, devastating logic, all enlivened by a keen sense of humor have earned for him the College Debating "D" and the respect of all his opponents.

Ian plans to take up business in Halifax. With his good nature, common sense, cheerful and sincere personality we trust that he is well-equipped to succeed in his chosen career.

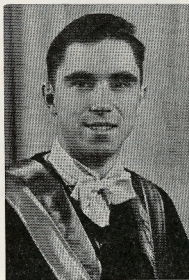

NANCY CATHERINE ANN GILLIS — SCIENCE

Nancy was born in Alberton on April 29, 1938; she arrived just in time to chase the April showers with her sunny smile. At an early age, Nancy started her quest for knowledge, stopping first at Alberton School, then Tignish Convent where she completed her high school education and graduated in 1953. In the fall of that same year, she entered Prince of Wales College in the Science Faculty. Her stay at P.W.C. lasted just two years, for in 1955, she decided to doff the Blue and Red of the Welshmen and don the Red and White of the Saints to continue her quest for a Bachelor of Science degree.

Though Nancy was late in joining the Class of '57, it was not long before she became an active and popular member of it. In the short time that she has been here, Nancy has been a contributing editor on the staff of Red and White, and President of the Sigma Delta Sorority; and she has taken part in many other campus activities.

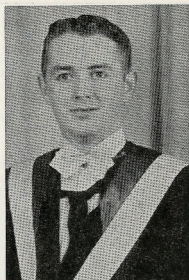

Her extra-curricular activities, however, do not overshadow her scholastic achievements, for Nancy has been at the top of her class in both her Junior and Senior years. Nancy's college record is one of which she may be justly proud. Her plans for the future are to continue in the field of science, either teaching, or applying her knowledge in a laboratory.

THOMAS VINCENT GRANT — SCIENCE

The rich warm day of August 1, 1955 ushered into the world Thomas Vincent Grant. The scene of this event was Miscouche, a village where he lived for less than a year. In 1936, he moved eastward to Summerside which is now his home. Tom's formal education began at St. Mary's Convent and then continued at Summerside High School. In 1951, he continued his journey eastward to take Grade XI at St. Dunstan's where he now merits his science degree. During his sojourn here, Tom showed his capabilities by participating in a number of college societies. He held executive positions in C.C.S.M.C. and C.F.C.C.S., and was also active in the Dramatics and Debating Societies. Tom also served as Chronicle Editor for Red and White. Since early high school, he revealed a flair for dramatics and rhetoric. His willingness, perseverance, and logic in arguing, plus a little of the "gift of gab", were rewarded this year when he received his debating "D". Tom, not neglecting athletics, was also an avid supporter of and participant in every campus sport.

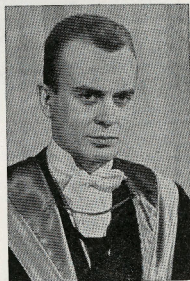

The crystal ball shows a son successfully following in his father's footsteps. We know he will succeed as a doctor and we think that with his powers of oratory and friendly persuasion, he could also be a success in politics.

ELMER FRANCIS HAMMILL — ARTS

Born amid the joys of farm life at Lower Freetown, Elmer first saw the light of day on July 12, 1934. Fortunate enough to be brought up in a rural environment, he was soon taught the necessity of hard work and the art of accepting responsibilities of whatever importance they might be. His first school days were spent at his home school where he received his primary education before entering Grade XI at St. Dunstan's in September, 1949. On the completion of Grade XII, he was employed for two years with the Summerside branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia, before returning to St. Dunstan's as a freshman in the fall of '53. Gifted with a charitable disposition and a keen sense of responsibility, Elmer has proved himself to be a good student, a diligent worker, and above all, a Christian gentleman. In the field of athletics, he has represented his class in all intramural sports. For the past three years, he has been a prominent member of the executive of the A.A.A., as basketball manager for two years, and president of that society this year.

Elmer looks forward to a career in banking, and as we survey his past endeavors, there is certainty that success will be his.

KIMBLE JAY — SCIENCE

The date of August 12, 1955 will not be found in any history text, nor will anyone likely attribute any significant
