

And got more than my worth,
 In those old days when I was proud
 And rivaled with the best—
 Alas! those days are over friend,
 Behold this wicked mess!

Steeple and Bra-ley say:—

“When you start for town, and you wear a frown
 And you don't know what to do,
 And all things go wrong, and the day seems long
 And you're feeling rather blue;
 Oh, it's nice to know you've a place to go
 Where you won't feel quite so sad;
 That there's someone there, in a cosy chair,
 Making you a laundry bag.”

D-ff-y says:—

“When you start for town, and you wear no frown
 And you're feeling fine and bright,
 And all things seem slick, and the day goes quick
 And you think you're at your height;
 Oh, its tough to know you've no place to go,
 That the girl you took to tea,
 Has taken a grudge, and has sent some fudge
 To your rival, one Bra-ley.”

Take Warning!

That this is true just bet a dime,
 It is as true as fate,
 The 'boss' is always down on time
 The morning you are late.

How short our happy days appear!
 How long the sorrowful!

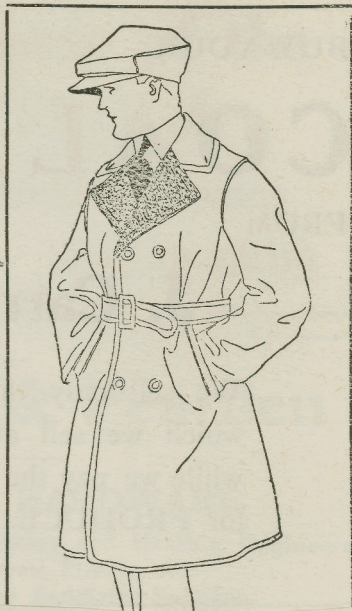

Dreaming of a to-morrow, which to-morrow
 Will be as distant then, as 'tis to-day
